Doctors Fear For Babies' Health In Milk Strike

Mothers Plead With Drivers As Famine Nears Crisis In U.S.

By UNITED PRESS

Eight million persons in and around Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington, D.C., went without milk today because of two dairy strikes.

Farmers, unable to get milk to the customers, dumped it on the ground or fed it to hogs.

The milk famine neared a crisis in a seven-county western Pennsylvania area where mothers fearing for the health of their babies pleaded for the drivers and dairies to settle their dispute.

They have had no deliveries since Thursday. An emergency supply plan collapsed, and physicians warned that unless infants receive their necessary quotas "they will be suckers for any bug that comes along."

In Washington, representatives of nine major dairies and A.F.L. union officials set up an emergency supply system allowing babies, soldiers, the aged, and hospital patients to receive milk.

EMERGENCY PLAN

The union and dairy managers announced an emergency delivery plan early today after an 11-hour session and promised to meet with mediators at 2 p.m., E.D.T., to discuss basic issues in the three-day shutdown.

Public protests mounted at Pittsburgh where the four-day walkout by 3,500 A.F.L. milkmen cut off deliveries to 7,000,000 residents in the greater Pittsburgh district.

Grocers' shelves were virtually picked clean of canned and powdered milk supplies.

Federal and state mediators scheduled conferences with both sides in Pittsburgh at 11 a.m., E.D.T., to break the deadlock over drivers' demands for higher commissions, 48 hours pay for 40 hours work per week, and better vacations.

'GRAVE DANGER'

The allegheny County Medical Society, swamped with telephoned pleas for emergency deliveries, said infants under 18 months were in "grave" danger. Pittsburgh's Mayor David Lawrence said he was convinced infants were in imminent danger and ordered company and union officials to charge a "workable" emergency delivery plan.

Some individual producers tried to deliver milk and police guarded against violence after milk bottles were hurled through plate glass windows of a dairy.

In Washington, only three small, non-union dairies continued normal operations, and in the few retail stores that still had supplies, prices skyrocketed to 31 and 33 cents a quart.

Under the emergency supply program, mothers can get milk for babies by presenting a doctor's certificate at one dairy. The union agreed to deliver to armed services mess halls, district institutions, and private hospitals.

Gypsy Boy Still Missing, Clues Confuse

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The mystery of what happened to a little gypsy boy believed suffering from a highly contagious disease deepened today as police worked on confusing clues and a "gypsy revenge" explanation.

The child, identified as eight-year-old Stanley Mitchell, fled with his parents from Toledo, O., Friday after doctors had found the boy apparently suffering from cerebral meningitis or polio.

Ohio highway patrolmen later picked up a couple identified as Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mitchell and their three children, Johnnie, 10, Ruby, 8, and Bill, 13, near Marion, O. The Mitchells are gypsies.

They were taken to University Hospital here, but released after a complete medical check-up.

Mitchell told police a confused story. He blamed "gypsy revenge" for the episode, explaining that he once turned a band of gypsies over to police in Cleveland. He said he met them again near Marion on Saturday and they informed police that his family was the one that had fled from Toledo with their child.

The red convertible driven by Mitchell and its license number matched the description given by Toledo police. But police who picked up the family found no boy named Stanley.

Luxury Ship, Freighter Collide In St. Lawrence

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — The luxury cruise liner St. Laurent limped into harbor today, her hull twisted and cabins smashed after a fog-shrouded St. Lawrence River collision with an Italian freighter.

The St. Laurent, plying the St. Lawrence's upper reaches with a load of vacationers, came off second best Saturday when the 10-000-ton Italian freighter Maria Palomina plowed into her near Tadoussac, Que.

One crewman, 22-year-old Claude Ferlin of Joliette, Que., was hospitalized at La Malbaie, Que., with a broken leg and reported in good condition. None of the passengers nor the freighter's crew was seriously hurt.

But Georges Morneau of Montreal, sightseeing by boat with his wife, said "several of us were cut and bruised when the outer walls of our cabins were pushed in."

The Canada Steamship Lines vessel was the second of that company's ships to come to grief in a year period. The late steamer Noronic burned at its Toronto berth last fall, claiming 118 lives.

The St. Laurent was nosing out of the Saguenay River, a St. Lawrence tributary, when the freighter loomed out of the fog and rammed it shortly after stewards sounded first call for dinner.

Preliminary examination showed outboard plates had been ripped from 10 cabins and about 25 others partially wrecked. The ship's car-parking platform was torn by the impact and two water tanks holed.

ABOVE WATER

Damage to the multi-decked, black and white-painted steamship was confined above the water line, ship's officers said pending a complete check in dry-dock.

The St. Laurent headed for Tadoussac after the collision and landed passengers whose cabins were smashed. Others stayed aboard and were put ashore when the damaged ship docked here early today.

Passengers who got off the boat here said there was "some" panic as what until the crash had been a quiet, smooth trip turned into a beldam of rending metal and snapping woodwork.

Soviet Stages Another Boycott

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Russia and her satellites today boycotted the United Nations conference on technical assistance to backward areas.

The Russians previously have either boycotted or withdrawn from 29 U.N. organs since Jan 10 in protest against continued participation of the Chinese Nationalists. They want the Chinese Communists to sit in the U.N.

22 Week-end Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—A plane crash at Hamilton in which two persons were killed was among a long list of week-end accidents across eastern Canada. A Canadian Press survey today listed 22 deaths—12 were in Ontario and 10 in Quebec.

King Leopold Talks With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius today received King Leopold of Belgium in a private audience and talked with him for a half-hour. Later the King's wife, Princess de Rethy, and then the Belgian ambassador to the Holy See joined the audience.

Rome's Communist press has stated that the Belgian King, in exile since his surrender to the Germans in the Second World War, came to Rome to seek the Pope's counsel before returning to the throne. His return has been made probable by the victory of the Social Christian (Catholic) Party in the Belgian elections.

The Catholic press insisted Leopold came here solely as a Holy Year pilgrim and denied the Vatican had interceded in favor of Leopold's return to his throne.

U.K. Reporter In Bad Books Of MacArthur

London Times Writer Not Yet Asked To Leave Jap Capital

TOKYO (UP)—Frank Hawley, Tokyo correspondent of the London Times, has been designated "persona non grata" by Gen. Douglas MacArthur because of a recent dispatch criticizing events in Japan, it was disclosed today.

MacArthur's views were communicated verbally to British ambassador Sir Alvary D. F. Gascoigne last Thursday by Maj-Gen. Edward Almond, chief of staff at Supreme Headquarters.

So far Hawley has not been asked to leave Japan nor has his privilege of filing cable dispatches to The Times been revoked.

Almond said that MacArthur objected specifically to two points in a dispatch filed by Hawley on June 6.

1. That in banning all Tokyo demonstrations, Japanese police violated Article 21 of the Japanese constitution.

2. That police asked to be relieved of their guns because of a fear of retaliation in event Japan became Communist.

The dispatch as it appeared in The London Times was reported back to Japanese newspapers by news agencies.

TALK FOR HOUR

Hawley met with Almond for an hour Thursday night to discuss the situation. After the conference Hawley said he had been told that both points were in error.

Hawley said Almond told him that supplementary enactments to the constitution, with which Hawley was unfamiliar, permitted the Japanese government to ignore the constitution "if such an action was in its opinion in the interests of the Japanese people as a whole."

Hawley said Almond also told him the dispatch was completely in error in the matter of Japanese police and their guns. According to Hawley, Almond said the police have requested even more effective weapons than they now have.

Hawley said he since has ascertained that the dispatch as he sent it was "slightly incorrect" and that he has filed a correction.

When asked to comment on Hawley's version of the interview, Almond said: "No matters which might affect individuals of the occupation, including correspondents, which are of a personal nature will be discussed by this headquarters."

Door Still Open, Says Alsbury, I.W.A. Chief

Representatives of 32,000 coastal loggers are going ahead with preparations for a June 15 strike in B.C.'s first-place industry, but last-minute negotiations appeared likely.

Labor Minister John Cates said he had met with the provincial Labor Relations Board with a view to arranging meetings between the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing 163 coastal operators.

Edward A. Jamieson, a Labor Relations Board official, promised he would have "something to say later today" and Stewart Alsbury, district representative of the C.I.O. International Woodworkers of America, said the door was still open for settlement.

It was learned that union, company and government officials planned a mediation meeting today to end the threat of a walkout by logers, millworkers and camp crews who voted last week to strike Thursday for higher pay and shorter working hours.

WILLING TO TALK

Alsbury said today "we are willing to discuss the conciliation board award—but only if some new proposition is made." He said the I.W.A.'s policy committee and membership had rejected the conciliators' offer and added, "there is no point in proceeding on that basis."

R. V. Stuart, head of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., which represents the companies, appeared confident that a settlement was around the corner. "The door is open for one," he said, reiterating an earlier statement by the union chief.

The I.W.A. and operators' representatives, not yet contacted officially on the plan to renew negotiations, would make no comment.

WAGE REQUEST

The loggers and millworkers, who voted in favor of striking in a government-supervised ballot, are asking a 17 cents an hour wage hike, a union shop and other contract concessions. Basic rate in the industry now is $1.08 an hour.

Forest Industrial Relations announced operators would accept the unanimous report of a conciliation board, refused by the I.W.A. negotiating committee.

Recommendations included a maintenance of membership clause in the contract and a nine cents an hour increase, but no union shop.

Meanwhile the Victoria local of the Woodworkers' Industrial Union of Canada announced it would support the I.W.A. in a strike.

The W.I.U.C. is the group which broke away from the I.W.A.

The local named a five-man committee to lead participation in the event of a strike in the lumbering industry: J. Peace, John Wainscott, Ben Sced, William White and J. Maher.

HONOLULU (AP) — Twenty-three firemen were overcome Saturday by smoke while fighting an explosive fire which destroyed the interior of the $300,000 Castle and Cooke terminals building in downtown Honolulu.

Screening Of Staffs Pressed Without Halt

OTTAWA (CP) — Security screening of employees in "vulnerable" government departments and agencies is continuing all the time, Justice Minister Garson told the Commons today.

Mr. Garson gave this information as he declined to inform E. D. Fulton (P.C.-Kamloops) how many employees had been discharged or released for security reasons.

The minister said the screening process "never ends." It was never complete at any certain date.

Mr. Fulton had asked how many had been discharged for security reasons, the positions they held and the dates of their discharge.

The minister declined to give this information in all cases except two employees of the National Research Council who had been mentioned in the 1946 Kellock-Taschereau spy report. In other cases this information would reveal identities.

It would be "most unfair" to brand them as "untrustworthy" persons when the standard for retention or release of an employee sometimes depended on the trustworthiness required for the job.

Mr. Fulton contended that to disclose the total number of those let out would not give away the identity of any of them.

Mr. Garson agreed to a further discussion when the estimates of his department came before the House.

C.C.F. leader Coldwell wanted to know if those upon whom the R.C.M.P. made reports were permitted to enter a defence.

That question was ruled out of order by the Speaker and the C.C.F. leader agreed to take it up during debate on justice estimates.

Ranger Missing

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Aircraft, forest rangers and provincial police combed the bush and lake country around Echo Bay, 30 miles southwest of here, for H. Harris, Kenora game overseer. Harris has been missing since Thursday.

Searchers found his outboard boat Friday, the engine in full running position and the fuel tank empty.

Draging operations began today, but police said a vast expanse of water might take a long time to cover.

Ontario Boundary Flood Hits Lumber, Fishing

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (CP)—A nine-mile strip of homes and cottages east of this international boundary town has suffered the most concentrated damage in this year's flooding through the Rainy Lake watershed.

Early today the lake level was only about an inch below the record level reached in 1916. It has been rising about three-quarters of an inch a day. R. F. Smallian, Canadian engineer at Fort Frances, Ont., across the Rainy River, said it may go up another six inches.

The twin border cities suffered little and are in no danger of inundation. But through the whole 14,500-square-mile tourist area draining into Rainy Lake the loss is estimated reliably at about $1,000,000.

MOST IN CANADA

Two-thirds of the drainage area—200 miles east and west by 70 miles deep—lies in Canada. However, because the U.S. area is more developed, the loss is reported to be greater there.

All heavily-used roads in Northwestern Ontario—and all roads from the United States—are open. Railways connecting Fort Frances with Winnipeg, the Lakehead and Duluth, Minn., are operating.

Most damage in Ontario has been to lumber and fishing industries and the Canadian National Railways.

J. A. Mathieu, head of the big Fort Frances White-Pine Sawmill said loss to his company has been "considerable." His mill, turning out 25,000,000 board feet of lumber yearly, mostly for export, was closed two days and now is operating with power from a sandbagged boiler-room kept dry by pumping.

George Smith, head of the Rainy Lake Commercial Fishermen's Association, said total loss through the watershed probably is $1,000,000.

COMMUNIST TRADE UNIONS LOSING

Governments Of West Europe Oust Reds From All High Posts

LONDON (UP)—The democratic governments of western Europe have ousted all known Communists from high official posts, a United Press survey showed today.

The survey also showed that Communist trade unions are losing their influence in industry.

The last-known Communist vacated a strategic government position in the Marshall Plan countries when Dr. Frederic Joliot-Curie was ousted as atomic energy chief in France.

In Belgium, Prof. Max Cosyns, an avowed Communist, heads a staff in nuclear physics research at Brussels University. But the Belgian government has no atomic energy program.

Meantime, paralyzing Communist-led strikes—like those in Italy and France in 1947—are things of the past.

Catholic and independent labor organizations have their Communist union opponents on the run.

The survey showed:

Britain—Known Communists purged. Security measures tightened. Communists and fellow-travelers beaten in February general elections. Most union members anti-Communist.

France—All known Communists removed from key posts. Communists occupy minor civil servant posts, control largest trade union organization (General Federation of Labor) and hold largest single bloc of seats in National Assembly.

West Germany—Mostly anti-Communist. Some Communists in public offices. Some Communist agitation in trade unions.

City Trades License Law Ruled Invalid

Loss Of $50,000 Revenue Faces Council From Ruling

The City Trades License By-law increasing trade and professional licenses, today was declared invalid by Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court.

The by-law was passed last year by the City Council in order to raise the municipal revenue by $50,000 every six months.

It was contested by J. R. McIlree, city barrister, who refused to pay his increased trade licence fee on the grounds that it was illegal. He was backed by the Victoria Bar Association and other business groups chafing under the increased fees.

In declaring the by-law invalid, Judge Shandley said he was convinced that the City Council did not study the by-law to see if there was no inequality or injustice done before passing it.

LEGAL DUTY

"I am of the opinion that it was the legal duty of the council not to delegate its authority but to consider and deal with every item set out in the by-law in order to see that no inequality or injustice takes place," stated the judge. "I am convinced they did no such thing."

He said there was at least one "glaring inequality and injustice."

"I am sure the council never would have passed it if they had given the by-law due consideration, namely, charging young men who have just completed their university training and who most likely will not earn sufficient to pay expenses during the first year.

The judge added: "For the reasons I have mentioned, I find the by-law invalid. Therefore it is not necessary for me to deal with the other points raised by counsel for the appellants. The appeal is allowed.

The judge's decision means that the increase imposed upon professional and tradesmen is illegal.

H. W. Davey, K.C., was counsel for Mr. McIlree. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, assisted by A. J. Patton, city solicitor, represented the city.

REUTER MAN IN BERLIN JOINS WITH REDS IN EAST

BERLIN (AP)—John Peet, Berlin correspondent for Reuter's news agency, announced today he is asking the Communist East German government for asylum because of "American warmongering."

Peet, 34, made his announcement to a press conference especially arranged by Gerhart Eisler, information chief for the ex-German government.

He said he expected that with this announcement his connection with Reuter, a world-wide news agency with headquarters in London, would be ended.

Peet, London-born, read in German a five-page denunciation of the United States, accusing Americans of war preparations, lies and imperialism, and of turning Britain into a vassal state.

The curly-haired, bespectacled correspondent replied "Never" when asked if he was a member of the Communist Party.

(Reuter headquarters in London said Peet's action had come as a complete surprise.)

2 MEN CONVICTED WORKED ON RADAR

Names Not Given, But Commons Told Of Two Others Fired For Security Reasons

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government revealed today that two Research Council scientists convicted in 1946 under the Official Secrets Act worked on the development of radar equipment.

The government also revealed that additional civil servants have been fired for security reasons, but refused to disclose their number or their identity.

Parliament was told the two convicted men were a junior research engineer and an assistant research engineer with the electrical engineering and radio branch of the council. Both men worked on the postwar development of radar defence equipment.

The partial identity of the men followed a statement to Parliament by Justice Minister Stuart Garson in connection with civil service security.

QUESTIONS ASKED

George McIlraith, parliamentary assistaht to Trade Minister C. D. Howe, revealed the positions held by the two men in answer to a question on the Commons order paper.

In his statement to the House, Garson declined to give Parliament the names of the two men who were convicted of espionage during the 1946 spy trials. He told the British United Press they had paid their penalty and "now should have a chance to make a come back."

He also refused to name or give the total number of other civil servants fired for security reasons.

His refusal to discuss the firing of "other persons" was the first government admission to Parliament that there had been additional disloyalty dismissals.

The minister said the government felt it would be unjust to disclose information on the other persons fired. Such information, he said, would in almost all cases disclose their identity. The employees had been dismissed as a result of R.C.M.P. screening of their records. But no court action had been taken against them.

Irish Attack On Trawler To Bring Arrests

DONEGAL, Republic of Ireland (Reuter) — Police, after hours of questioning fishermen in the Culdaff area of northwest Ireland, said today they expected to make arrests "any time now" in connection with a rifle attack Saturday on an English trawler off the Donegal coast.

James Richard Wayman, 52-year-old skipper of the 93-ton trawler Loch Esk, arrived at Campbeltown on the Scottish coast Sunday with a .22-calibre bullet wound in his thigh. He said three motor fishing boats, each containing about 20 Irishmen, had raked his vessel's decks with rifle fire.

He said that at the time of the attack, "about midnight Saturday, the Loch Esk was fishing four or five miles off the Donegal coast."

"The men were definitely Irish and they were definitely out to kill. I could hear the bullets spattering against the wheelhouse. It was their last burst that got me."

A mate, Ronald Clark, took over the wheel and headed for the open sea, dragging the fishing nets.

The government information bureau said no Irish naval vessel had fired on a fishing trawler.

Demand Made U.S. Halt Goods From Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Mack (R.-Wash.) renewed today his demand that the United States halt importation of goods produced by Russia and its satellite countries.

Mack, in a statement, said the value of such goods amounted to $42,000,000 last year. Russia, on the other hand, had bought only $6,000,000 of products from the United States, he said.

"By these transactions," Mack said, "Russia obtained $35,000,000 U.S. dollars and credit with which to buy goods from other nations that would strengthen her economy and war potential. . . ."

He quoted from a recent speech of Willard Thorp, Assistant Secretary of State, in which that official said there is "mounting evidence" that Russian goods are produced by slave labor.

"Yet despite Mr. Thorp's statement and our efforts, and those of western fishermen, to ban, further imports of Russian canned crab," Mack said, "the Treasury Department has arrived at no decision as to what it will do."

B.C.'s Largest Bond Issue To Finance Roads

Sale of a new issue of $26,000,000 B.C. debentures—the largest issue of securities in the history of the province—was announced today by Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb.

The debentures are to take care of the province's share of Trans-Canada Highway construction and to finance reconstruction and improvements generally to provincial highways, and to pay outstanding treasury bills issued for highways, bridges, public buildings, U.B.C. and the P.G.E.

The issue consists of $14,000,000 one and three-quarter per cent, two and two and one-half per cent 10-year serial debentures.

At no time in its history has the province issued debentures of this maturity at so low a coupon rate.

In addition the issue consists of $12,000,000 three per cent sinking fund debentures which will be offered at 99 and accrued interest to yield 3.07 per cent.

The issue has been sold to a group of 22 banks and investment dealers under the joint management of A. E. Ames and Co. Ltd. and Mills Spence and Co. Ltd.

In commenting on the rates for the new debentures, Mr. Anscomb said they reflected the high credit position of the province.

'Black Hand' In U.S. Traced By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate crime investigators were reported today to have evidence that the Sicilian Black Hand Society "is responsible for much big-time crime" in the United States.

A committee source who asked to remain anonymous said the Senate's special crime investigating group has turned its attention to the American operations of the society, also known as the Mafia.

Chairman Kenneth Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) confirmed that the committee is looking into the Mafia's operations.

The Mafia originally was a secret society of assassins and murderers which existed in Sicily more than 100 years ago. Some of its members are believed to have entered the United States around 1850.

Four years ago, during a narcotics case in New York, Garland Williams, district supervisor of the federal bureau of narcotics, said a dominant figure in the society was Frank Costello—New York gambling figure whose operations recently have been the subject of an investigation by a Senate commerce subcommittee.

Costello denied Williams' accusation.

The Senate source said the crime investigators are seeking information on the immigration and citizenship records of known and suspected criminals and big-time gamblers, in an effort to link them with the Sicilian criminal society.

Labor Board Calls Emergency Parley To Avert I.W.A. Strike

Union, Operators May Discuss Rand Formula On Check-off

VANCOUVER (CP)—An emergency meeting of the International Woodworkers of America (C.C.L.) and coast lumber operators was called today by the Labor Relations Board in a new attempt to prevent an industry-wide strike scheduled for Thursday.

Labor Minister John Cates ordered the attempt made to avert "the serious consequences a strike in the lumber industry would have on the whole economy of the province."

The meeting was set for 2.30 this afternoon with the union and Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., representing the 165 operators.

Unless the union scales down demands for a 17 cents an hour wage boost and a union shop—they already have rejected a conciliation board recommendation of a nine-cent raise and a maintenance of membership—or the operators budge sufficiently, 32,000 men will walk out Thursday.

At New Westminster during the week-end a quarterly meeting of the union put last touches to strike plans, including picketing, and support from other unions. The rebel Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada has pledged support but it has not been acknowledged by the I.W.A.

MAKES SUGGESTION

A compromise to avert a strike was suggested today by Andrew Whisker, M.L.A. for Cowichan-Newcastle.

He believes acceptance of the Rand formula for union payment of dues by all employees is the answer to the threatened tie-up.

A former member of the Provincial Labor Department whose district would be one of those hardest hit by a logging strike, Mr. Whisker is convinced that union security is the real point at issue in the walkout scheduled Thursday.

This being the case, the formula of Chief Justice Rand of Ontario used in the Ford strike where union security was one of the main issues, might save the day.

It calls for payment of union dues by all employees whether they are union members or not. In this way the non-union employees contribute to the union in recognition of benefits the union might have secured for them.

Mr. Whisker made the compromise suggestion in telegrams to the I.W.A. headquarters at Vancouver, and the Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., which is the employers' organization in negotiations with the union.

MOVE EXPECTED

A report came from Vancouver where the Labor Relations Board are meeting today at a special emergency parley of union, operators and government representatives early this afternoon at the Labor Relations Board offices.

C.I.O. International Woodworkers of America International Representative Tom McKenzie said union security is the number one point in the dispute. He said the union must have some sort of union security, and, he said, "the Rand formula would make it more attractive." He said wages was a secondary issue.

'THRILLERS' CHEER BISHOP

Bishop Rocksborough Smith, assistant Bishop of Exeter and rector of Lapford, Devonshire, said here today he finds pocket book crime thrillers relaxing holiday reading.

The Bishop was caught reading a hair-raising detective yarn at the Windermere Hotel.

"I see nothing wrong in these books," he said.

Contract Ends Phone Strike In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Union officials announced today that grievances which caused the strike of 350 Manitoba telephone system employees had been settled.

The agreement followed negotiations between union and company officials today.

W. Ladyman, representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the union would recommend the workers return to work tomorrow morning. The recommendation was to be placed before the men tonight.

The dispute did not affect regular telephone service.

In a statement today, the union said:

"We are given to understand that the system will endeavor to make necessary changes in order that the men will receive their pay cheques on the specified dates (cheques had been delayed) . . . also that the cancellation of holidays is revoked and will be put on a voluntary basis."

Secession Vote Statement Soon

Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald is expected to make an announcement later in the week on the Saanich secession question.

On the mainland today Mr. MacDonald will return Tuesday to study results of the plebiscite vote taken in the municipality Saturday and will make a recommendation to the provincial cabinet on applications by groups of residents in the former Ward Six and Ward Five areas for permission to break away from the municipality. (See stories, page 2.)

COURT CALLS WOMAN DEAD SIX MONTHS

In city police court today it was learned that a woman charged under the B.C. government sanitary regulations has been dead for six months.

It was the case of Marie Jean Guiney, charged with failing to supply clear and pure water for tenants at 1753 Rockland Avenue on June 7 and 8.

Marie Guiney appeared to answer to the charge and explained "the summons was issued to my daughter who passed away six months ago." The mother said she would answer to the charge.

Case was remanded to tomorrow to clear up a point of law involved in such a situation.

Views Differ On Defence Production

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to give Trade Minister Howe wide powers over defence production ran into opposition in the Commons today from the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, called for delay on the measure until the government had defined the emergency that called for it.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, declared the step did not seem to be warranted by the international situation as the Commons knew it. He also urged nationalization of Canada's outright munitions industries.

Explaining the measure, the Trade Minister said Canada must strengthen herself to be able to resist an aggressor and "to overcome him if we fail to deter him."

Mr. Howe spoke on a resolution preparatory to introduction of a new Defence Supplies Act which grants the responsible minister authority to procure defence supplies, to stockpile strategic materials, to construct defence projects and to let contracts for shipbuilding and ship repairing.

The measure retains some of the mandatory powers contained in the wartime Munitions and Supply Act of 1939, drafted to deal with wartime conditions. The new act would considerably curtail these mandatory powers, but "we consider that it is highly desirable to continue to vest in the minister the procurement authority for the requirements of the armed services."

VANCOUVER (BUP) — Two boys playing cops and robbers in an isolated ravine found $7,000 worth of cheques stolen in a recent cafe payroll robbery, police said today.

RACKETEERING CHARGED AMONG STEWARDS ABOARD AORANGI

SYDNEY (BUP)—Ship's stewards here are charging that racketeers with seemingly unlimited supplies of black market dollars are getting jobs as stewards on the Australia-B.C. steamship run.

The Marine Stewards' and Pantrymen's Association complains many of its members are unable to get work because of these so-called "racketeers."

The union claims an average of 35 of the 175 stewards aboard the Aorangi on each trip are making the first trip. It claims the men buy dollars at Honolulu at a black market rate. When they reach B.C., the union says, the men get three days' shore leave and fly to United States, spend their dollars on goods unobtainable in Australia, and smuggle them back to Australia for sale at inflated prices.

Union official G. Moate said in Melbourne, "It's a scandal and we're trying to do something about it."

MARTIN TELLS B.C. BUSINESSMEN

Asia Trade Must Be Nourished To Help Canada's Prosperity

VANCOUVER (CP)—A firm conviction that British Columbia trade with Asia must be nourished and encouraged to supplement Canada's prosperity backbone was laid today before provincial businessmen by Health Minister Paul Martin.

Here to address the Canadian Conference on Social Work, Mr. Martin told the Advertising and Sales Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade foreign trade is a "marked" factor in Canadian prosperity and such prosperity is the foundation of social security.

"I know that Pacific trade totals only 4 per cent of our total exports and imports," he said and that it was not "even the most important item of interest" in Vancouver since only 13 per cent of trade through B.C. ports is with south and southeast Asia nations. Too, only 7 per cent of this was in provincial produce.

But, he added, "this trade has a tremendous potential, not only for the increase and maintenance of our prosperity in the years ahead but also for the benefit of those people with whom we will exchange goods."

Mr. Martin said that with 15 countries in Asia gaining political independence in the last 25 years, the old order was gone.

Canada could take a place in the rehabilitation problem created by this and even if only 10 per cent of the 1,200,000 persons in those countries became potential customers under better living conditions, the market would be worth developing.

Wants Govt. To Act On Secession Vote

Kersey Seeks Final Settlement So Council Can Work Properly

On the grounds that "the council cannot function properly until the Ward Six secession question is finally settled," Councillor William C. Kersay of Saanich said today he will press for prompt action from the government.

"There can be no doubts at all now that a large majority of the people in the ward want secession following Saturday's vote," said the veteran representative for the farming ward. He will ask the council to press for action.

Speaking as a representative of the people as a whole—now that the ward system has been abolished—Mr. Kersey said the council will have to hold up its money by-laws, cease work on the reassessment task and delay other matters until the Ward Six independence move is settled.

FINAL SHOWDOWN

"We've got to have a final showdown on the matter," he said, reiterating his opinion that the area can function on an economically-sound basis on its own.

Before leaving Sunday for California with his wife and son, Councillor Sydney Pickles, central figure in Ward Six's drive for secession, said it was vitally important that the government act now to relieve the ward from being involved in future money by-laws, other than for schools. He was pleased with the results.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey said the vote went the way he had predicted.

He said the determined efforts of the anti-secessionists in Ward Five, particularly in the Cordova Bay area, resulted in a big turnout to vote. The reeve said the number casting ballots was almost twice the turnout for ordinary voting issues.

"The vote shows clearly how Ward Five ratepayers stand," said Kenneth R. Genn, former councilor and chairman of the area's anti-secession committee. Like others strongly concerned in the voting, he did not think the inner area vote had much bearing on the issue.

He was grateful for all the help given by those who opposed the idea of the area being "kidnapped" into secession.

Fleet-Footed Burglar Wins Escape Race

J. B. Keast, H.M.C.S. Naden Hospital, was unsuccessful in a game attempt to catch a burglar who had broken into a downtown shop about 1 Sunday morning, city police reported.

The tall, slim man who broke into Richardson's Cigar Store, 736 Yates Street, by smashing a rear window, was seen by Keast coming out of the front door, which he had forced.

A chase resulted. Keast pursued the fleet-footed burglar through the Blue Line Taxi yard to Johnson Street, west to Douglas and lost him as the chase progressed north on Douglas.

Ben Hall, 909 Collinson Street, told police nothing apparently was taken.

Wards Seeking To Join Oak Bay Support Secession

A majority of the ratepayers in Ward Three and the portion of Ward One who cast ballots in Saturday's plebiscite, strongly supported the secessionists in the outer areas. Both of these sections are seeking amalgamation with Oak Bay.

At Gordon Head the vote was 61 to 22 for Ward Five secession, 65 to 19 for Ward Six secession. At Cadboro Bay the count was 136 to 39 for Ward Five secession, 152 to 24 for Ward Six secession. At the Ward One Richmond Road station the vote was 110 to 24 for Ward Five secession and 121 to 25 for Ward Six secession.

The Cedar Hill vote was 100 to 106 against secession for Ward Five and 119 to 86 for Ward Six secession.

The Ward Seven Gorge area ratepayers voted 104 to 36 for secession in both areas.

Church Forward Move Planned

MONTREAL (CP) — A new movement in the Presbyterian Church in Canada came into being Saturday when the church's general assembly approved a program of "Christian witness."

Rev. E. C. McCullagh, chairman of the board of evangelism and social action, said it was decided to commit the Presbyterian Church to a forward movement in evangelism.

"This will take the form of a preaching and teaching mission and of organized visitation to the homes of people, particularly the unchurched," he said.

Mr. McCullagh said that in 1941 the census showed 829,147 declared Presbyterians with only one-third of these actively connected with the church.

Other activities during the day included dedication of a new Chinese church, with delegates to the 76th general assembly taking a leading part.

CONCESSION ENTERED

Thieves who broke into the bleacher concession booth at the Royal Athletic Park during the week-end, stole some cookies and destroyed paper cups and napkins in the booth, city police said. Leo Ornest, concession manager, said no money had been left in the cash box.

Five Cars Stolen At Up-Island Points

B.C. police during the week-end alerted Greater Victoria police to be on the lookout for five vehicles stolen at up-island points. A truck and a car were stolen in Nanaimo, a car from Duncan, another car from Port Alberni and a fifth vehicle from another up-island centre owned by Duncan Ellery of Cedar, B.C.

RAZORS STOLEN

While Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Grant, 614 Maryfield Avenue, were away from home between May 30 and June 2, a burglar entered their upstairs rooms and stole two electric razors valued at $18.

Plan Completion Seawall Repairs For September

Mild weather and favorable tides will combine to hasten completion of Dallas Road seawall repairs now under way by city's public works department. Cyril Jones, city engineer, who estimated cost of repairs at $72,000, hopes to have job finished by September. Lower tides during the day, prevalent in summer months, aid work.

Saanich Voters Favor Secession But Ward Five Wants To Stay In

The big question in the minds of Saanich residents today is what the provincial cabinet will do following Saturday's vote in favor of secession of former Wards Five and Six.

The voting showed conclusly that a good majority of the property owners in Ward Six want to break away and form their own municipality and that a similar preponderance of ratepayers in Ward Five don't want their area divorced from Saanich.

Ratepayers in other parts of the municipality were invited to express their opinion by ballot on secession of the areas. Not many turned out, but the majority of those who did voted in favor of allowing the two outer areas to secede.

Only 2,788 ballots were cast although nearly 14,600 were eligible to vote.

Ward Five and Ward Six votes were kept separate from the remainder to get the voice of the people directly concerned with secession.

VOTING BREAKDOWN

Following is a breakdown on how the voting went.

Ward Five polls—On Ward Five secession, 292 yes and 480 no; on Ward Six secession, 349 yes and 421 no.

Ward Six polls—On Ward Five secession, 356 yes and 163 no; on Ward Six secession, 386 yes and 146 no.

Inside area polls—On Ward Five secession, 859 yes and 623 no; on Ward Six secession, 949 yes and 537 no.

The totals were 1,507 for Ward Five secession, 1,266 against, and 1,684 for Ward Six secession and 1,104 against.

The overall count favored secession of Ward Five by a 241 vote majority, a 780 vote majority for secession of Ward Six.

Returning officer William E. Poupore was conducting a recount of the ballots today.

In Ward Six, 532 of a total of 905 ratepayers turned out to vote, while about 50 per cent of Ward Five's 1,570 ratepayers voted.

HOPE WISHES ACCEPTED

It is the hope of Saanich Council and officials prominent in the fights for an against secession that the government will take Saturday's vote as wishes of the people and act accordingly to dispose of the secession question for good.

Agitation for independence for urban Saanich has been going on for nearly a half century and has been a particularly live topic during the last few years in Ward Six.

The way voting went in the two wards leaves Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald with a new problem. He had stated earlier that secession would be considered for both areas, but did not appear to favor separating merely one area. Ward Five ratepayers have left no doubt they do not want to leave Saanich. The cabinet has not committed itself on its possible action on the vote outcome.

White Rock Man Drowns In Sea

WHITE ROCK (CP)—George Roberts, 77, was drowned Saturday in waters off this resort town's beach.

The White Rock man failed to return after going for a swim. The body was found by Arthur Wiss and Frank Hindle as they walked along the beach.

HIT-RUN ACCIDENT

M. E. Lore, R.R.I. Royal Oak, told city police late Saturday night that his car was hit on Yates Street by another vehicle which failed to stop.

Ceylon Bakers Protest 'Poor Quality' Of Canadian Wheat; Ask More From Australia

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuter)—Ceylon bakers have protested against the "poor quality" of government-imported Canadian wheat and flour and have asked for more Australian wheat.

Albert Perera, president of the Master Bakers' Association, alleged in a public statement that as a result of the government's accepting "very low tenders for Canadian wheat and flour without reference to quality or grade," people in Ceylon had been compelled to eat "worse bread than ever before."

Food Commissioner K. Alvapillai told the press that the object of importing Canadian flour was to "bring down Australian prices."

Tests showed, he added, that Canadian flour is richer than Australian in proteins, and further purchases probably will be made in the United States and Canada.

Alvapillai said that for the time being he has decided to allow in 40 per cent Australian flour to 60 per cent Canadian. He hoped to make it 50-50.

Burglar Scared Off

The burglar who entered Mrs. G. Connerel's 844 Cormorant Street home at 2.40 Sunday morning, through the unlocked front door, awakened the occupants and had to make a hurried exit, police report. Nothing in the home was disturbed.

COMMUNIST TRADE UNIONS LOSING

Governments Of West Europe Oust Reds From All High Posts

LONDON (UP)—The democratic governments of western Europe have ousted all known Communists from high official posts, a United Press survey showed today.

The survey also showed that Communist trade unions are losing their influence in industry.

The last-known Communist vacated a strategic government position in the Marshall Plan countries when Dr. Frederic Joliot-Curie was ousted as atomic energy chief in France.

In Belgium, Prof. Max Cosyns, an avowed Communist, heads a staff in nuclear physics research at Brussels University. But the Belgian government has no atomic energy program.

Meantime, paralyzing Communist-led strikes—like those in Italy and France in 1947—are things of the past.

Catholic and independent labor organizations have their Communist union opponents on the run.

The survey showed:

Britain—Known Communists purged. Security measures tightened. Communists and fellow-travelers beaten in February general elections. Most union members anti-Communist.

France—All known Communists removed from key posts. Communists occupy minor civil servant posts, control largest trade union organization (General Federation of Labor) and hold largest single bloc of seats in National Assembly.

West Germany—Mostly anti-Communist. Some Communists in public offices. Some Communist agitation in trade unions.

Ontario Boundary Flood Hits Lumber, Fishing

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (CP)—A nine-mile strip of homes and cottages east of this international boundary town has suffered the most concentrated damage in this year's flooding through the Rainy Lake watershed.

Early today the lake level was only about an inch below the record level reached in 1916. It has been rising about three-quarters of an inch a day. R. F. Smallian, Canadian engineer at Fort Frances, Ont., across the Rainy River, said it may go up another six inches.

The twin border cities suffered little and are in no danger of inundation. But through the whole 14,500-square-mile tourist area draining into Riny Lake the loss is estimated reliably at about $1,000,000.

MOST IN CANADA

Two-thirds of the drainage area—200 miles east and west by 70 miles deep—lies in Canada. However, because the U.S. area is more developed, the loss is reported to be greater there.

All heavily-used roads in Northwestern Ontario—and all roads from the United States—are open. Railways connecting Fort Frances with Winnipeg, the Lakehead and Duluth, Minn., are operating.

Most damage in Ontario has been to lumber and fishing industries and the Canadian National Railways.

J. A. Mathieu, head of the big Fort Frances White-Pine Sawmill said loss to his company has been "considerable." His mill, turning out 25,000,000 board feet of lumber yearly, mostly for export, was closed two days and now is operating with power from a sandbagged boiler-room kept dry by pumping.

George Smith, head of the Rainy Lake Commercial Fishermen's Association, said total loss through the watershed probably is $1,000,000.

Fear Effect Milk Strike On Children

By UNITED PRESS

Eight million persons in and around Pittsburgh, Pa., and Washington, D.C., went without milk today because of two dairy strikes.

Farmers, unable to get milk to the customers, dumped it on the ground or fed it to hogs.

The milk famine neared a crisis in a seven-county western Pennsylvania area where mothers fearing for the health of their babies pleaded for the drivers and dairies to settle their dispute.

They have had no deliveries since Thursday. An emergency supply plan collapsed, and physicians warned that unless infants receive their necessary quotas "they will be suckers for any bug that comes along."

In Washington, representatives of nine major dairies and A.F.L. union officials set up an emergency supply system allowing babies, soldiers, the aged, and hospital patients to receive milk.

EMERGENCY PLAN

The union and dairy managers announced an emergency delivery plan early today after an 11-hour session and promised to meet with mediators at 2 p.m., E.D.T., to discuss basic issues in the three-day shutdown.

Public protests mounted at Pittsburgh where the four-day walkout by 3,500 A.F.L. milkmen cut off deliveries to 7,000,000 residents in the greater Pittsburgh district.

Grocers' shelves were virtually picked clean of canned and powdered milk supplies.

Federal and state mediators scheduled conferences with both sides in Pittsburgh at 11 a.m., E.D.T., to break the deadlock over drivers' demands for higher commissions, 48 hours pay for 40 hours work per week, and better vacations.

'GRAVE DANGER'

The allegheny County Medical Society, swamped with telephoned pleas for emergency deliveries, said infants under 18 months were in "grave" danger.

Ranger Missing

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Aircraft, forest rangers and provincial police combed the bush and lake country around Echo Bay, 30 miles southwest of here, for H. Harris, Kenora game overseer. Harris has been missing since Thursday.

Searchers found his outboard boat Friday, the engine in full running position and the fuel tank empty.

Draging operations began today, but police said a vast expanse of water might take a long time to cover.

22 Week-end Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—A plane crash at Hamilton in which two persons were killed was among a long list of week-end accidents across eastern Canada. A Canadian Press survey today listed 22 deaths—12 were in Ontario and 10 in Quebec.

PAWLING, N.Y. (AP) — A single bolt of lightning Saturday killed 35 milk cows on the Starkdale Farm near here.

Soviet Stages Another Boycott

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—Russia and her satellites today boycotted the United Nations conference on technical assistance to backward areas.

The Russians previously have either boycotted or withdrawn from 29 U.N. organs since Jan 10 in protest against continued participation of the Chinese Nationalists. They want the Chinese Communists to sit in the U.N.

Vacationers' Ship Freighter Crash

St. Laurent At Quebec For Repairs; Italian Ship Proceeds

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—The luxury cruise liner St. Laurent limped into harbor today, her hull twisted and cabins smashed after a fog-shrouded St. Lawrence River collision with an Italian freighter.

The St. Laurent, plying the St. Lawrence's upper reaches with a load of vacationers, came off second best Saturday when the 10,000-ton Italian freighter Maria Palomina plowed into her near Dalhousie, Que.

One crewman, 22-year-old Claude Perlin of Joliette, Que., was hospitalized at La Malbaie, Que., with a broken leg and reported in good condition. None of the passengers nor the freighter's crew was seriously hurt.

But Georges Morneau of Montreal, sightseeing by boat with his wife said "several of us were cut and bruised when the outer walls of our cabins were pushed in."

The Canada Steamship Lines vessel was the second of that company's ships to come to grief in a year period. The late steamer Noronic burned at its Toronto berth last fall, claiming 118 lives.

The St. Laurent was nosing out of the Saguenay River, a St. Lawrence tributary, when the freighter loomed out of the fog and rammed it shortly after stewards sounded first call for dinner.

Preliminary examination showed outboard plates had been ripped from 10 cabins and about 25 others partially wrecked. The ship's car-parking platform was torn by the impact and two water tanks holed.

SHIPS WATER

Damage to the multi-decked, black and white-painted steamship was confined above the water line, ship's officers said pending a complete check in drydock.

The St. Laurent headed for Dalhousie after the collision and landed passengers whose cabins were smashed. Others stayed aboard and were put ashore when the damaged ship docked here early today.

Passengers who got off the boat here said there was "some" panic as what until the crash had been a quiet, smooth trip turned into a beldam of rending metal and snapping woodwork.

The Maria Palomina proceeded on her way.

Gypsy Boy Still Missing, Clues Confuse

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—The mystery of what happened to a little gypsy boy believed suffering from a highly contagious disease deepened today as police worked on confusing clues and a "gypsy revenge" explanation.

The child, identified as eight-year-old Stanley Mitchell, fled with his parents from Toledo, O., Friday after doctors had found the boy apparently suffering from cerebral meningitis or polio.

Ohio highway patrolmen later picked up a couple identified as Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mitchell and their three children, Johnnie, 10, Ruby, 8, and Bill, 13, near Marion, O. The Mitchells are gypsies.

They were taken to University Hospital here, but released after a complete medical check-up.

Mitchell told police a confused story. He blamed "gypsy revenge" for the episode, explaining that he once turned a band of gypsies over to police in Cleveland. He said he met them again near Marion on Saturday and they informed police that his family was the one that had fled from Toledo with their child.

The red convertible driven by Mitchell and its license number matched the description given by Toledo police. But police who picked up the family found no boy named Stanley.

U.K. Reporter In Bad Books Of MacArthur

TOKYO (UP)—Frank Hawley, Tokyo correspondent of the London Times, has been designated "persona non grata" by Gen. Douglas MacArthur because of a recent dispatch criticizing events in Japan, it was disclosed today.

MacArthur's views were communicated verbally to British ambassador Sir Alvary D. F. Gascoigne last Thursday by Maj.-Gen. Edward Almond, chief of staff at Supreme Headquarters.

So far Hawley has not been asked to leave Japan nor has his privilege of filing cable dispatches to The Times been revoked.

Almond said that MacArthur objected specifically to two points in a dispatch filed by Hawley on June 6.

Hawley said he since has ascertained that the dispatch as he sent it was "slightly incorrect" and that he has filed a correction.

King Leopold Talks With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius today received King Leopold of Belgium in a private audience and talked with him for a half-hour. Later the King's wife, Princess de Rethy, and then the Belgian ambassador to the Holy See joined the audience.

Rome's Communist press has stated that the Belgian King, in exile since his surrender to the Germans in the Second World War, came to Rome to seek the Pope's counsel before returning to the throne. His return has been made probable by the victory of the Social Christian (Catholic) Party in the Belgian elections.

The Catholic press insisted Leopold came here solely as a Holy Year pilgrim and denied the Vatican had interceded in favor of Leopold's return to his throne.

The Prospect Is Grave

IN A LENGTHY STATEMENT INtended to explain the present position of the British Columbia district of the International Woodworkers of America, of which he is president, Mr. J. Stewart Alsbury concludes his recital with the following:

"We are fully cognizant of the seriousness of strike action in the major industry of the province. It will impose a stern sacrifice on I.W.A. members and their families. The strike is a weapon of last resort in our fight for just terms of employment. If the operators are determined to use their economic strength to impose unjust terms on their employees, the I.W.A. members will be compelled to exercise their democratic right to cease work."

How the majority of the rank and file of the I.W.A. membership really feel about the prospect of a probable long period of idleness is a personal matter between themselves and an executive body which has refused the unanimous award of the conciliation board, and which had sanctioned the resort to the union's "democratic right to cease work." Of course a strike would be bound to "impose a stern sacrifice on I.W.A. members." What Mr. Alsbury omitted to mention, however, was that bringing to a halt the province's major industry also would impose a stern sacrifice on tens of thousands whose daily labors are almost wholly dependent upon the continuous movement of the products of British Columbia's forests. As we said in these columns on the termination of the disastrous strike four years ago:

"Inherent in all industrial disputes, whether in Canada or elsewhere, is the danger of idleness militating against the production of that volume of national wealth which is so essential to the elevation of living standards. Nobody denies, incidentally, that the redistribution of the total wealth of the nation on a fairer basis is a desirable objective in any society and, under our present taxation laws, this country has gone a long way in this direction. WHAT IS MORE IMPORTANT TO BEAR IN MIND, HOWEVER, IS THAT WE MAKE QUITE SURE THAT THERE IS PLENTY OF WEALTH TO DISTRIBUTE. Strikes dissipate it; work produces it."

The strike of 1946 lasted 36 days. Both sides lost heavily in the financial sense. One wonders how long it took the workers to redress the family budget in consequence. It is by no means certain, of course, that work in the woods will cease as a result of the present impasse—a threat made all the more sinister by reason of a decision by the longshoremen to act in sympathy. All will hope that wiser councils will prevail before the zero hour is reached on June 15.

In view of what has occurred up to the time of this writing it would seem appropriate to note one or two points. In the first place, the conciliation board of three was composed of a representative named by the provincial government, one by the employers, and the other by the I.W.A. In the second place, the nominee of the union was none other than Dr. Eugene Forsey, a Rhodes scholar and well-known economist of the Canadian Congress of Labor and who, we are reliably informed, often officiates as economic mentor to the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. The unanimous award of the board included a recommendation for a 9-cent increase in pay and maintenance of membership as a degree of union security. It also unanimously refused the employers' request for a 25-cent-a-day increase in board and lodging rates. Dr. Forsey found himself in complete agreement with his colleagues in respect of these three important points of the issue. He signed with the rest. Since the I.W.A. executives published their jubilation over getting him to represent their union, complete with picture in their official organ, it is extraordinary that the order to take a strike vote should have been issued.

To be sure, there was nothing to compel the I.W.A. to accept the unanimous award simply because a Labor economist of national reputation attached his signature to it. But it must have seemed more than passing strange that Dr. Forsey did not bring in a minority report that would have appeased an executive which—or so it appears—had not expected him to contribute to the unanimity of the board in these vital aspects of the dispute.

All that remains to be said, therefore, is to repeat the hope that some action will be taken before the deadline is reached next Thursday so that a strike of incalculably serious proportions may be averted in an industry upon which so many other industries in the province depend for their ability to carry on.

He Weathered The Financial Storms

MANY VICTORIANS WILL REMEMber the hectic days of the last months of the late Mayor David Leeming's regime at the City Hall. That was an era in which the capital faced a problem of finance as grave as any in its history. Low revenue, impaired tax collections, mounting debt and increasing costs had all but pushed the city to the wall. In some centres elsewhere in Canada insolvency had forced default.

In the middle of the stormy seas of civic finance at that time was Mr. D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller. When the eastern Canadian expert, Mr. Jules Fortin, devised a life-line to rescue Victoria from its commitments, "D.A." was the man on whom the responsibility for the vast detail of a major refunding plan fell. The success of that scheme, carried into operation by Mayor Leeming's successor, the late Mayor Andrew McGavin, is history now. It remains, however, an important memory in the mind of Mr. Macdonald who will officially terminate 27 years' service as Victoria's comptroller early next month.

As he receives the good wishes of colleagues and friends for his enjoyment of the years ahead, he may look back with satisfaction on the part he played in solving the city's severest financial conundrum. Mr. Macdonald has been a man of caution in a post which called for the exercise of that characteristic. He has frequently placed himself on record in opposition to some of the actions of city councils whose servant he was. In the matter of caring for the public till, as well as in his sagacious policies of investment, he need have no misgivings over the approval he has earned.

Two Sides To Nature

THE PERSONAL STORIES OF MANItobans returning to their ruined homes have proved almost as tragic as the earlier accounts of destruction by the rising waters of the Red River. Although the water level last Saturday was down to 18 feet in Winnipeg, the point at which the danger of flooding terminates, the full extent of the disaster was becoming better known as residents broke open their water-swollen doors to assess the damage. Warped walls and floors; spoiled furniture, rugs and drapes; depressing accumulations of slime and silt; ruined fences, walks and foundations; mud and debris inside and out—these form the costly toll of the river's rampage. These are the cause of the replacements and repairs that will take many tens of thousands of dollars to carry out. Such problems are the personal ones—they take no account of the equally extensive damage to crops and land, to commercial establishments, public works and thoroughfares. The assistance that has poured in from Canada, Britain, the United States—from as far away as Ethiopia—will restore not only property but morale. The beneficiaries will know that their plight has not gone unheeded, that although nature has shown its savage aspect, human nature has helped in some measure to restore the balance.

Visit Of British War Minister Ends Far East Army's Problems

By MICHAEL DAVIDSON, from Kuala Lumpur

IT SEEMS extraordinary that not until the Secretary of State for War visited Malaya in person could demands made by the Army here for more than six months be met.

As long ago as last November battalion officers in the field as well as those directing jungle training were clamoring for a certain weapon. Three months ago units were asked for estimates of how many of this weapon they would need. After that no more was heard. Now Strachey settles the matter with a telegram to London.

INADEQUATE ARMS

For the same period all ranks have reported the inadequacy of the Sten gun; it hasn't the required hitting power, nor is it always reliable, and most specimens here are wearing out. But it has taken a Secretary of States to do something about replacing it.

The question of clothing has long been a sore point (though happily the monstrous regulation that men must pay for clothing damaged in the jungle has been done away with). The provision of decent "walking out dress" for men off duty or on local leave, in place of the sloppy and shabby jungle green, is important for self-respect and morale. Last week-end Strachey announced that the matter of clothing would be dealt with.

Why is the long administrative chain of generals and staff officers between here and Whitehall unable to convince the War Office of the urgency of such things? Why must the Minister himself travel thousands of miles before the army can have the weapons it wants? The fault does not lie in the Malaya District Command, which is concerned with the fighting: such needs are appreciated here at all levels.

With these few deficiencies made good the army will be satisfied. Today it is well equipped. There is armor here, good armor, and more is coming. The inflexibility of "peace-time accounting," earlier so exasperating to units in the field, has mercifully been relaxed. Lighter webbing equipment, making jungle marching less burdensome, is in use. Medical facilities are good—there is even in the worst jungle area the much-needed surgical unit which some months ago it was "quite impossible to provide."

Mr. Strachey's visit made a very real impression on the army—a good one. Officers found him not only able, but nice; the men were delighted by his natural and obviously genuine manner (though one purist Guardsman—not an officer—commented tersely: "Scruffy chap: keeps his hands in his pockets").

"That was a fine job, him going on patrol," one soldier said. "Now he'll be able to tell them at home how things are."

And a little cockney added: "What I likes is him getting two blinking generals to do a spot of jungle-bashing." (Generals Urquhart and Redman accompanied the minister on the patrol.)

Doukhobors

(From a Special Committee of The B.C. Teachers' Federation)

THE teachers of Grand Forks School District feel strongly that the situation regarding the Doukhobors is not sufficiently well known to taxpayers of British Columbia. We, therefore, wish to present several aspects of the case.

To maintain flood lights and guards for the schools in this comparatively small district has cost so far in 1950: January $835, February $754, March $822, April $1135, with an expected cost of at least $1000 per month henceforth. This is merely for schools. Add to this the cost of maintaining guards on bridges and other threatened structures—then multiply the total to give an over-all view of the cost for the several endangered areas from Nelson to Grand Forks.

TO PROVIDE jails with the attendant expense of food, warders and transportation is no small financial burden. Approximately 90 offenders have been taken into custody from this district within the last month. In addition there are convicted Doukhobors still serving terms in various Canadian prisons.

Extra men have been sent in to supplement our police force. This adds to the already high cost of "maintaining order" in this district.

The actual destruction of property in this particular area has been confined mainly to private and C.P.R. property but the threat to schools and public buildings persists.

Consider that this money is being spent to prevent anarchy in a supposedly civilized country. Could not this money be more effectively used in a positive program for the benefit of law-abiding and deserving citizens? This group which has had 50 years to appreciate the laws of the country should no longer be pampered. Its members should not be allowed to disregard the laws and responsibilities of the country while enjoying its protection and benefits. The present crisis is not of recent origin but has burdened our citizens for many years.

THIS group has shown a consistent contempt for our laws in:

(1) The refusal of some to send their children to school;

(2) The withdrawal of children from school during the present uprising. (At least 20 have been withdrawn in May 1950.) The truancy laws, for some reason, have not been enforced in these cases;

(3) Their neglect of registering births and deaths.

Those who are convicted of crime become jail-heroes to their group. The only case for which the law apparently is being enforced is against nudity, the least of their offences. A 16-year-old high school boy, whose only crime was to undress in public, was sentenced to three years, while adults who confessed to the burning of Tarrys school received sentences ranging from one day to six months.

THE REALIZATION that the laws are not being enforced against law-breaking Doukhobors arouses in law-abiding citizens a feeling of resentment and a lack of respect for our laws and police. Several Attorney-Generals and Governments of our province have been fully aware of this situation and have not taken adequate steps to correct it.

As long as the Doukhobors are allowed to remain in compact groups the Sons of Freedom can be effective in winning over the so-called independent Doukhobors by emotional persuasion or by threat. Our educational systems are unable to combat successfully the influence of the radical group and fanatic relatives. The Sons of Freedom are not a small die-hard group but an expanding organization indoctrinating the more enlightened. This is evidenced by the voluntary identification of high school students with the Sons of Freedom. (One Grade XI student participated in the nudist parade of Sunday, May 21. Others express sympathy with their aims.)

MANY of the children as well as the adults speak no English. A large number of the school children attend Russian schools which are not under supervision of our government. There is evidence in our schools that the Doukhobor group is a fertile field for anti-democratic propaganda. As teachers we are very conscious of the valuable potentialities of the Doukhobors who accept our society and continue in it. It is poor economy to allow them to be influenced by antagonistic forces.

The racial discrimination evident in this valley is being increased by the failure of our government to treat these people as citizens with responsibilities as well as privileges.

DOUKHOBORS who have been convicted of crime are allowed to continue their group associations. This is particularly dangerous where juveniles are confined with adults, thus ensuring a continuing generation of fanatics. U.S. and Canadian publications have recently eulogized part of the Doukhobor population. We feel these articles tend to blind the public to the seriousness of the overall picture. There is no clear demarcation between the groups. The fact that orthodox Doukhobors seldom assist the police in bringing offenders to justice indicates their feeling of kinship with the radicals rather than their allegiance to Canada. Some become emancipated while others revert to fanaticism whenever weather conditions are suitable for bonfires or a suntan.

POLICE AND DEBT

Since when was the law changed whereby respectable people can be hauled up in a common police court and sentenced to a common jail for nonpayment of a small debt?

Even 100 years ago, when Charles Dickens succeeded in abolishing debtors' prisons, no such indignity was inflicted on the debtors, who were, to quote Mr. Micawber, "incarcerated on civil process."

With regard to compulsory hospital insurance, freedom-loving citizens should remember that it is invariably in the guise of "welfare" that the police state satellites of Russia gained their political power.

Freedom-loving citizens should find out exactly what people are responsible for this "compulsory" state of affairs, and watch carefully their politics in future.

ARENA COMMENTS

I am a subscriber to your paper and have been for two years, during which time I have had good service, and good reading. However, there have been two items of public interest which began to get very boring to me. One I am glad to say is finished—beer parlors. The second is the one I would like to comment on at this time, our War Memorial Arena.

I don't want to dwell too much on the controversy that is now going on between Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Luney, and our Board of Aldermen, re the arena floor. What I have to say is in benefit of those sport fans, like myself, who spend a lot of time sitting inside the arena at all sports events that go on there, namely, hockey and lacrosse. I feel that what I want to say, and I will be brief, will be supported wholeheartedly by hockey and lacrosse fans.

1. Old Age Pensioners must pay full price admission. Why? In Vancouver at most sports events they get in at a reduced rate.

2. I would like to strap Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Luney, and all executive members to one of the arena seats for the time it takes to play a double-header hockey game or lacrosse game and then ask them if the type of seat in our arena is comfortable and fitting to this beautiful building?

3. Confusion and rush in concession stands at rest periods. Why not have it like Athletic Park? Sell in the stands to offset this mad rush.

4. The color green does not afford a good background for a lacrosse ball. I refer to the boards around the floor.

PUTTING ON AN ACT

E. A. Pease, President of the Victoria Peace Council, like all fellow-travellers favors communism before peace. Their complaints of unfairness towards their (at present) favorite tragedian the Red Dean, are reminiscent of Weedon Grossmith's lament in The Pantomine Rehearsal. "And so I became a tragedian. Ye Gods how the audiences laughed! Then I became a comedian and they have never laughed again."

The Red Dean is nothing but a great actor who uses the church to stage his shows. The fate of thousands of prisoners of war and "political malcontents" is nothing to him if they provide food for his vanity and a background for his comedy. As for the irreverent Endicott, he is nothing but a poor imitator of a great egotist.

Instead of listening to sermons provided by such torturers of truth, why does not E. A. Pease read, mark learn and inwardly digest the first principles of human rights as expounded and reported by the United Nations?

Protecting The Fraser Valley

From The Ottawa Citizen

WITH Manitoba's Red River subsiding after its disastrous flood, attention is turning to the potential danger of the rising Fraser River in British Columbia. Two years ago the Fraser was on a rampage that did millions of dollars' worth of damage in its rich agricultural valley and delta. Now abnormally large quantities of water-soaked snow are still lying on the mountains of the interior, a tremendous reservoir of water that has yet to drain down to the sea. But British Columbians face the situation with more confidence than ever before. Last month the Fraser Valley Dyking Commission ended its protective task. In several respects, its record of achievement should be instructive when public works are undertaken in the future.

The commission was a federal-provincial board that gave an admirable demonstration of inter-governmental co-operation. It spent $11,500,000, of which the federal treasury contributed 75 per cent and the province 25 per cent. The expenditure appears to have been notably economical and effective. Mr. J. B. Carswell, the commission chairman, is convinced that sound engineering has prevented any flood this year. He says further that estimated costs were hit "right on the nose." There was no juggling of estimates, no waste, and there were no unexpected bills.

Most remarkable testimony of all, Mr. Carswell reports that no political "engineering" bedevilled the dike engineering of his board. As quoted by the Vancouver Province, he states: "There was not one bit of pressure from any government or political source to grant contracts to anyone's friends." And he adds this was the first time in his long experience that politics did not interfere with public works.

Governments were concerned only with meeting effectively the national emergency created by the Fraser flood, and the public would not have tolerated any other approach. Governmental extravagance, patronage, and waste can be curbed when governments are firm and voters vigilant.

REBELLIOUS BUS DRIVER

Toronto Star

A lot of people the world over will have a fellow feeling for that New York bus driver who got himself into the news. Under prolonged abuse from a passenger after a dispute over payment of the fare, the driver ousted all his passengers, gave them transfers for the next bus, drove his machine back to the barn and quit for the day. What an exhilarating but topsy-turvy world this would be if all those who serve the public reacted in similar fashion when indignities are heaped upon them by people or circumstance.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By CLARKE BEECH

Associated Press News Analyst
(For DeWitt Mackenzie)

WHEN THE European recovery program was launched, many a student of history feared it would open a new era of colonial exploitation.

European leaders had proclaimed that Europe must develop its colonies and possessions as an essential aid to Europe's recovery. The questions asked were:

Would they simply drain off the natural riches of the colonies?

Or would they plow a good share of the profits back into the business, enabling the natives themselves to benefit permanently?

Some United States officials are reassured after having had an opportunity to observe how economic co-operation administration funds have been spent in the colonies, and to study development programs that the European countries have conducted with their own funds.

They say there is no doubt that the countries of Europe are showing determination to share the profits of colonial enterprises with the people in the colonies.

About $300,000,000 of E.C.A. funds has been spent in colonial dependencies. In addition, $100,000,000 in counterpart funds has been invested there. One E.C.A. official says a large share of this money is going into projects which will be of permanent benefit to the communities involved.

Norris E. Dodd, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, said after a recent trip through Africa and other colonial areas that in all the countries he visited, there were programs to promote health, education, rural welfare, credit, transportation, marketing and distribution.

Various forms of vocational training were provided. And in all countries the natives were being taught how to grow more food.

Typical of the new era are some of the current British projects in Africa. At Owen Falls, in East Africa, and on the Volta River, in Guinea, dams are being built and new industrial communities planned to take advantage of the irrigation and electric power. In another program 60,000 natives were resettled on good agricultural land in the Anchau area in northern Nigeria.

PREMATURE DEPARTURES

Montreal Gazette

Certainly it is plain now that the British withdrawal from Burma was premature indeed. But what of an American withdrawal from Japan? In all Asia it is one of the few areas of comparative order. There seems serious cause to fear that to withdraw now would be to lead Japan into the encircling gloom.

WE HOPE NOT

London (Ont.) Free Press

We trust that James Fisher, British ornithologist, is mistaken when he asserts that birds have a "foreign" accent, that he can tell a French chaffinch from an English chaffinch by its accent. Granted that parrots and ravens and such gifted talkers might acquire an accent based on national residence and environmental idiom, we would not wish to hear the song birds singing their glorious melodies in such restricted tones.

What the world needs today is the universal spirit. We are bedevilled by nationalism. The tower of Babel still divides men. With us a chaffinch is a chaffinch, and that's enough.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

THAT was a tough break," said the Elevator Man, "for that plane that shot itself down in the North Sea the other day. It seems that the big bomber was having gunnery practice and shots from a machine gun in one of its turrets set one engine on fire. Ordinarily a safety-first arrangement would automatically make that impossible—but it didn't work. That was a mechanical suicide if there ever was one, like a dinosaur biting out its own heart. Our inventions are becoming so much like humans these days they're a danger to themselves. Mezzanine!

"A lot of us," said the Elevator Man, "have the same trouble. We keep shooting ourselves down in one way or another. One of our own arguments bounces back to floor us, one of our own traps catches us. Somebody starts a war of aggression and ends up with less than he started. Adolf and Benito found that out. Incidentally, I wonder who'll be next? There's no percentage in cutting off your nose to spite your face, accidentally or not. But a lot of us haven't learned that truth yet. Progress is slow because most of us learn by experience, and sometimes the experience is fatal. Going down!

"I suppose," said the Elevator Man, "in a way the whole world today is like that airplane. Guns in one part of it keep shooting holes in another part, but each is 'part of the main' and the world as a whole suffers. Fortunately it hasn't gone down in flames yet. We can't control its spinning or we'd probably have wrecked that long ago. But we seem to be shaping up for a really big bang if we don't watch out. If the safety catch doesn't work we'll all suffer."

REPORT FROM VETERANS' HOSPITAL

So You Think You Got Troubles! Meet Some Of Ward B's Warriors

Tom Merriman, city editor of the Times, is in the Veterans' Hospital undergoing treatment for a wound he suffered during World War I at Vimy.

By TOM MERRIMAN

WARD B, VETERANS' HOSPITAL—If you thing the hard luck jinx is trailing you; if you think you've got a package of grief, physically, mentally or economically, spend a day or two at the D.V.A. Hospital. You will probably come to conclusion very quickly that you haven't a trouble worth giving a second thought to.

It is not that the men grouch about their lot but conversation is one of the ways to battle this deadly business of killing time.

LIVED DANGEROUSLY

First I have in mind the deep-sea diver who after living most of his life dangerously, full of adventures and hazardous experiences, tripped on a dog that was standing behind him and at 85 years of age is bedridden with a broken hip.

I didn't get the story from him direct.

Neither did I the one from Bill Jenkinson, who is in this ward with a leg broken in three places.

Bill is between 60 and 70. I didn't ask him for too many details.

He comes from Oldham and if he thought anything he told was going to be printed he would put your on the spot.

"Don't put nowt about me in tha ruddy paper," he would say.

Anyway, Bill came from Lancashire a long time ago. He has no complaints about Canada.

"Good country. I like it. But I'd go back to Auld Country this ruddy minutes if t' missus would say yes," he says.

Of course Bill got a lot of advice from brave husbands (whose wives weren't around), about what should be done to wives who dared to question a husband's wish.

Bill, who is a 100 per cent pensioner from service injuries suffered in World War One, ignored it.

RESERVATIONS MADE

Last December he had paid his passage and made reservations for a trip "'ome to Oldham."

Throughout the war and since he has been sending parcels overseas; canned turkey particularly made a hit.

The trials of the Old Country probably increased Bill's affection for the homeland from which he has never been completely weaned.

A sizeable "bit of brass" which he has come into over there and which he can only draw in Canada in small amounts, could be an attraction, too—even to a Lancashire man.

Dec. 8, I think it was, Bill was to sail. Dec. 6 he was at Langford at the ceremony marking the inauguration of a lodge of British origin, the Buffaloes, I think it was.

TOUGH BREAK

Stepping into a bus Bill trippel on a step. He crumpled up with a leg broken in three places.

The day he was to sail for England he was on the D.V.A. operating table.

The trip he had been looking forward to for more than 30 years was canceled.

Some of the many Old Country men here can understand Bill's disappointment but you wouldn't know it by meeting him.

He is one of the brightest chaps in the ward. Like most Lanacashire men, he is musical.

He has a remarkable voice. He is a high tenor, almost a soprano.

He has a trick of breaking into song without moving his lips. You wonder where the voice is coming from. He sings like a ventriloquist.

You look around in search of the singer and can't tell where he is.

Then you see the laugh in his eyes that always accompanies his jokes and realize he is the singer.

THE HOME GARDEN

Cultivating A Pleasure If Proper Tools Used

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Invention has been credited to necessity, but laziness had a hand in most instances.

The simple garden tools were all designed to make the job a little easier—some succeeded, others still have a long way to go.

Cultivation and weed killing being the main task at this time, attention naturally centres on the various tools designed for this work, especially the common garden hoe.

Frankly, I was never on good terms with the "chop hoe," as the Chinamen call it, especially in a stiff clay which is either wet and sticky or dry and resembling concrete.

Maybe it is laziness, maybe the back wasn't built for hoeing, whatever the cause there had to be an easier way.

DUTCH HOE

The problem was partially solved by the Dutch hoe, the sharpened blade of which is pushed away from the operator. It had no way of differentiating between weed and seedlings, and to hit an obstruction often cost a valued plant.

The stirrup hoe proved much better. The ends of the sharpened blade being protected, it can be used close to plants without doing damage, and because the operator walks backwards footprints are erased. Cutting takes place on the draw stroke about an inch below the surface, leaving a level dust mulch to retain the soil moisture.

FAVORITE TOOL

Whether the home garden is a city lot or a couple of acres, the wheelhoe should have a favored place among the other tools, except when the two acres are all stones.

Interchangeable attachments include a small plough, duckfoot cultivating teeth, spring teeth, sharpened weed cutters, furrowing or ridging attachment, rakes of various widths, and for making a perfect seed-bed, a pair of triple discs. When handled in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions cultivating becomes a pleasure in any average soil.

4 Perish, 4 Saved From Motorboat At Spillway

One Man Dies Hero In Rescue Attempt When Craft Goes Over Pittsburgh Dam

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The raging waters of an Allegheny River spillway took four lives Sunday, but river men who refused to quit rescue efforts in the face of terrifying odds pulled four others to safety.

One river man, 50-year-old Hull Wright, died a hero.

He tried desperately to save six persons who rode over a 11-foot dam in their 25-foot cabin cruiser 15 miles northeast of Pittsburgh.

The four who survived a night of horror were battered and beaten.

They clung to the cruiser as it bobbed in the foaming, swirling spillway. For seven hours they watched scores of rescue attempts fail.

A blimp, a seaplane and even men in a rowboat tried to reach them.

Just as it seemed their cruiser would capsize, they were pulled to safety by the volunteer crew of a small river towboat piloted by a veteran skipper who willingly took his chance with fate. He won his gamble—and lost his boat as it overturned.

There were six in the cruiser when it missed a lock and went over the dam.

Wright and his boss, veteran lockmaster James Woffenden, went to their rescue in an 18-foot skiff.

The small craft was smashed to pieces and Woffenden and Wright jumped to the cruiser.

Then, one by one, the four who perished began going overboard, Woffenden said:

"It was a nightmare. . . . I tried to get everybody to hang on tight and wait for help, but it wasn't long before one of the women was swept overboard. The next was Hull. Then another woman fell in. Finally a man disappeared. That left four of us."

Stephen Gwynn Dies In Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — Stephen Gwynn, Irish author, died Sunday. He was 87.

He was a member of the British Parliament from Galway from 1906 to 1918 and in 1917-18 served with the Irish convention which discussed plans for the Free State.

As an author Gwynn was best known for his biographies of literary figures, including Tennyson, Oliver Goldsmith, Thomas Moore, Sir Walter Scott, Horace Walpole, Dean Jonathan Swift and Robert Louis Stevenson.

TONSILS OUT OF DATE, SAYS BERNARD SHAW

LONDON (Reuter) — Tonsil operations "are already out of date," says the latest pronouncement of George Bernard Shaw, now nearly 85.

Oliver Locker Lampson, retired politician currently campaigning against needless operations, wrote to the sage for support.

Back came Shaw's reply: "I never had any tonsil trouble. Didn't know I had any tonsils. The National Health Act (giving Britons virtually-free medical treatment) and the Swedish custom of paying your doctor by the year to keep you well are a great advance. Tonsils are already out of date."

British Columbia's population in 1949 was estimated at 1,114,000 compared with the 1941 total of 817,861.

New Lutheran Bishop Works With Reds In Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP)—Hungary's largest diocese of the Lutheran Church has a new bishop who favors co-operation with the country's Communist-led government.

The new prelate, Rev. Laszlo Dezsery, 36, succeeds Lajos Ordass, who last month was released from prison after serving almost 20 months of a two-year sentence for currency speculation. He had been removed from office by a special church court April 2.

(Both Ordass' conviction and his removal from office were protested by the Lutheran World Federation. He was convicted of failing to report a $500,000 gift from American Lutherans. The federation said the gift amounted to $200,000, that it was transmitted through the Hungarian National Bank, and that it thus became a matter of record.)

Italy Quit War To Spring 'To Aid Of Victorious'

Viscount Alexander, Then Allied Chief, Writes It Was Not Result Of Unrest

LONDON (CP)—Field Marshal Viscount Alexander says in a dispatch published today that Italy quit the war because her leaders wanted to back the winning side and not because of any unrest or popular demand among the people.

Lord Alexander was wartime Allied commander-in-chief in Italy. He now is Governor-General of Canada.

In a dispatch written in 1947 and published today in the London Gazette, he says Italy's capitulation in 1943 under Marshal Badoglio occurred because the Italian government decided, "as Italian statesmen had decided in the past, that the time had come to 'spring to the aid of the victorious'."

He adds:

"A similar calculation, false as it turned out, had brought them into the war in June, 1940. The moment then had been carefully chosen; now also they hoped that, by changing sides at this juncture, they would have just enough fighting to do to justify a claim, when the actual end of the war came, to a place among the victorious allies."

Lord Alexander, who was Gen. Harold Alexander when he wrote the report, speculates on what might have happened had the Allies hit middle Europe powerfully from the south. He urged making a swift power drive through Italy, and even considered landing strong forces in Yugoslavia.

This was not carried out because of decisions on a higher level to land Allied troops in southern France.

"It is interesting to speculate," he says, "what would have happenede if I had been allowed to carry out this plan (for a northward thrust from Italy) and had appeared with two strong armies on the southern frontier of Germany and the Danube basin in the autum of 1944.

"The effects would probably have been considerable, not only militarily but politically. My plan was, however, fated to be stillborn."

Release Aged Vet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Police during the week-end released William Henry Smith, 70, held following the death of a fellow inmate of a veterans' home.

The aged veteran was taken into custody when 66-year-old Oliver John Arnold died after what was described as a brief altercation in the home.

A post-mortem examination revealed Arnold died of a chronic heart ailment, police said.

RICKENBACKER BACKS 'SAUCERS'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker today came to the rescue of the people who can't get anyone to believe they've seen flying saucers.

He thinks they're real, too.

"Too many good men have seen them that don't have hallucinations," he said in an interview here.

"And if they exist," he added, "you can bet they belong to the United States Air Force—they're not from Mars and not from Russia."

Rickenbacker declined to amplify his remarks.

The Indian government's botanical gardens at Ootacamund in the Province of Madras are 100 years old.

Eagles To Discuss Many Community Topics Here

Current objectipes to be advanced at the convention of the B.C. Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, here next week-end will be the extension of social security, the conquest of juvenile delinquency, child health and welfare measures, aid for the handicapped, youth guidance, including the formation of Junior Order of Eagle units, and the Eagles Memorial Foundation.

Supporters for old-age pensions, the Eagles now seek to have the government go beyond its present program for extending social security, provincial president Joseph Wright said in a pre-convention announcement.

The resources and energies of the fraternity are being concentrated on solving the juvenile delinquency problem by sponsoring worthy youth activities in Eagle communities and by holding youth institutes, where the whole problem is discussed by leading authorities on the problem, he said.

In promoting child health, the Eagles in many communities are sponsoring well-baby clinics for the free examination of children of pre-school age and for giving advice to the parents.

A parade will be held Saturday afternoon from C.P.R. docks to the Eagles Home, View Street.

Drill team competitions will be held on Blanshard Street between View and Fort at 3 o'clock that day and an interesting feature will be a contest between Victoria and Seattle youth teams.

A banquet for Eagle members will be held at 5.30, with a grand pageant following at 8 at the Memorial Arena, after which a dance will be held. and dance will be open to the public. Tickets are on sale at the Arena and at the Eagles Home.

Transit Association Studies Increasing Road Problems

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—More than twice as many Canadians are running for streetcars and buses as 10 years ago.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian Transit Association speakers indicated the public may be faced with further increases in fares and advocated something be done to keep non-essential motor traffic off the busiest thoroughfares.

Said W. H. Furlong, president, of Windsor, Ont.:

"In 1939 our industry carried 632,533,152 passengers in 4,530 vehicles operated on public highways with 14,400 employees who received $18,850,000 in annual wages. In 1948, 1,507,838,191 passengers were carried in 5,604 vehicles, and the 22,593 employees received $55,268,083 in annual wages. Passengers carried in 1949 totaled 1,504,849,298. . . .

"Canada now is at the stage reached by the United States 100 years ago when Americans were just discovering the wealth of their country's resources—and Canada's potential is scarcely touched."

He said traffic congestion calls for a determined policy of city planning. In the United States—and the same is becoming true in Canada—more than half the families own a car, and the private car "is trying to squeeze on to streets that were overcrowded in the horse-and-buggy days."

Malta is a self-governing colony with a representative assembly and responsible ministers.

U.S. Leaders Say Russia Ready For Big Test 1953

Now Mustering 40,000 Tanks And May Have Big Enough A-Bomb Pile By Then

Bq MAX BOYD

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States military planners believe the West may avoid blood and tears if it devotes the right amount of toil and sweat to the production of revolutionary weapons developed during the war and since.

These experts contend scientific advances make it possible to achieve relative security without spending to the point of bankruptcy. But they say this less costly way of matching Russia's military strength will still not be cheap or easy.

By official United States estimates, Russian strength today includes:

1. An army with 175 divisions ready for combat, and the ability to increase this to 300 divisions within 60 days and 500 in a matter of months. Together with satellite armies, Russia can muster 40,000 tanks.

2. An air force "whose strength in nearly all categories is now the largest in the world." It includes long-range bombers.

3. The world's largest submarine fleet.

4. The ability to produce an atomic explosion.

Western military men say the apparent long lead held by the United States in atomic bomb production, plus the capacity of the U.S. Air Force to deliver the bombs, is preventing Russia from seizing western Europe.

But they add there now is practically a military vacuum in western Europe, which invites aggression. They predict this vacuum will cause a war if it is not filled by the time Russia has a substantial stockpile of A-bombs and a peak of military strength.

When that will be, no one outside the Kremlin knows, but it has been estimated at some time about 1953.

Detroit Humbles Boston Twice

"The Red Sox won't win the pennant this year," the man said. "They fold up against the strong clubs."

The man was a Boston baseball writer. The remark was made after Boston had buried St. Louis Browns under a record 29 to 4 count last Thursday.

"Why don't they do that against New York or Detroit?" he asked. "Know why? They wilt under pressure."

There is no denying that the Red Sox have had miserable luck against first-division clubs this season. In 23 games against the Yankees, Tigers and Cleveland Indians, the Sox have won nine and lost 14. That's a cellar-like .394 percentage.

To make matters worse, Joe McCarthy's men apparently have lost their magic winning touch at home. With one-third of the campaign gone, they've dropped 11 games in Fenway Park.

Red Rolfe's Tigers heaped insult upon injury Sunday when the league-leaders used two left-handers who pitched nine innings apiece.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser scattered 10 hits to beat Boston 6 to 2 in the opener. Lefty Ted Gray allowed only four hits in nine innings of sterling relief ball to gain credit for the 9-to-6 triumph in the second game. A three-run homer by Vic Wertz snapped a 6-to-6 tie in the 14 inning.

The Yanks kept pace with Detroit by sweeping both ends of a double-header from the Browns 1 to 0 and 4 to 2.

St. Louis' soaring Cardinals widened their first-place margin in the National League to two games over Brooklyn by crushing New York Giants twice, 6 to1 and 8 to 2. The best the Dodgers could do was divide a pair with the Reds in Cincinnati, winning the opener 5 to 4 and losing the nightcap 8 to 5.

Double Win Moves A's Out Of Cellar

Marshall, Smith Beat Yakima; Chiefs Here

Victoria Athletics are out of the W.I.L. cellar and Vancouver Capilanos are in the dungeon.

This came about Sunday when the A's with John Marshall and Ron Smith doing the honors two-timed Yakima, 1 to 0 and 8 to 3, while Spokane Indians were nipping the Caps, 4 to 3, in 12 innings at Spokane.

With their heads above water for the first time this season the A's return home tonight to meet an old nemisis—Wenatchee.

The Chiefs, who last year proved to be the biggest thorn in the side of the locals, are at present riding the crest of a four-game winning streak. They took a pair from Tri - City Braves Sunday 3 to 1 and 7 to 2, to sweep the four-game series.

TIGERS SPLIT

The league leading Tacoma Tigers broke even in their Sunday double bill with Salem Senators, Wimpy Quinn doubling home the winning run in the eighth inning to give the Tigers the nightcap, 2 to 1, after the Senators had won the opener, 6 to 3. Bob Kerrigan was handed his first defeat of the season in the nine-inning opener as John Tierney of the Senators chalked up his 11th victory.

Frank Matoh was the hero of the Spokane victory, singling home the winning marker in the 12th. The second game of the scheduled twin bill was rained out.

In the A's double triumph, the first game was a pitcher's battle between Marshall and veteran Larry Powell with big John turning in a three-hitter for his seventh win of the campaign.

The only run of the game came in the first inning when Junior Krug doubled, went to third on Jim Moore's ground ball to short and scored on Jim Wert's blow to the same spot.

The A's, held in check for half the game by little Ted Savarese, broke loose in the late innings of the second contest, allowing Smith to coast to victory.

Courageous Ben Hogan Wins Playoff For U.S. Open Golf

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP)—The boss man of golf is back.

He's back with two sound legs, a new pin-hungry quality to his golf shots, and a determination that marks him as one of the great masters.

The latest chapter in the fantastic Ben Hogan saga was written Sunday down the fairways and across the tricky greens of Merion's East Course.

"He's the greatest of them all," acknowledged Lloyd Mangrum, a tough old pro himself, after being beaten in the 18-hole triple playoff for the 50th United States Open championship.

A steady stream of pars and birdies was flung at Mangrum and George Fazio in the extra round.

Hogan, moving briskly on legs once battered in collision with a 10-ton bus, fashioned a methodical one-under-par 69 to win easily.

Mangrum, 35-year-old Texan playing out of Niles, Ill., shot 73, counting an unfortunate two-stroke penalty for blowing a bug off his ball, and Fazio, a baldish 37-year-old home pro from Washington, registered 75.

Hogan thus picked up the strings of a championship skein interrupted by an automobile accident Feb. 2, 1949, on a highway near Van Horn, Tex. It was feared he might never walk again.

"My legs are okay and I wish we could get everybody to forget them," the little man said after his victory. He resents pity. He dislikes being regarded as a freak.

PLAYED IT SMART

He won the open championship, he said, not with his legs but with his head and a putter he started to throw away.

"I played safe throughout the tournament," he related. "I never took chances, never tried for birdies, always went for the green instead of the pin."

The putter he used in his blazing journey around the 6,694-yard, par 70 layout, was a blade job he had decided to discard.

Ben rammed home a 50-footer for a birdie deuce on the 17th and rolled home a tough seven-footer for his par on the last hole.

Charlie Lewis Commissioner

Charlie Lewis, Victoria, was re-elected local commissioner for the B.C. Junior and Juvenile Football Association at the annual election of officers held at Vancouver Saturday night.

Softball Benefit Realizes $1,400

Credit the Senior A Men's Softball League with a successful job completed.

Credit the coach of Chinese Students, Stan Tenning, and George Lowe, a member of the Students' Association, with a lot of hard work. And throw a few bouquets to the fans who attend the games in Central Park. Put them all together and you'll see how $1,400 was raised for Wilf Chan in Sunday's softball benefit at Athletic Park.

After the game, which incidentally Douglas Tire won by the score of 4 to 3, Tenning was at a loss to find words in trying to thank everyone for their co-operation in seeing the venture through to a successful ending.

A new chapter is now opened in the life book of Wilf Chan. Preparations are under way to try and send him to the world famous Mayo Clinic to see if they can cure the ailment that has set back the healing of his broken right leg.

Chan entered hospital last August after he had broken his leg sliding into third base at Central Park. Doctors fear that he may eventually lose the leg, but now that enough money has been raised Chan is going to get the best possible treatment available.

The game was played under perfect conditions in Athletic Park with over 3,000 fans basking under the hot sun. In addition to the play, pre-game entertainment was provided by local groups.

The Victoria Lions Youth Band under the baton of Ted Tucker, played throughout the afternoon.

A novel exhibition of fencing was presented by the Victoria Fencing Club and the Pro-Rec Tumbling and Gym team drew rounds of applause for their turns on the springboard and high horse.

A standout in the added attractions was the performance in midfield by the local Chinese Girl's Drill Team.

By virtue of their victory Tiremen moved three full games ahead of the second place Students.

Short score follows:

	R.	H.	E.
Chinese Students	3	6	1
Douglas Tire	4	8	2

'Y' Tracksters Take Firsts At Vancouver Meet

Competing in their first meet of the year, seven members of the Victoria Y.M.C.A. track and field club took two first places and three seconds in five events at the Vancouver Relays, Saturday.

In the feature race of the afternoon—the sprint medley — the University of Washington team had too much speed for the "Y" boys. Junior Don Pimlott ran the first quarter losing about 10 yards to Fred Bush of Washington. Walt Young and Bob Hutchinson ran the 220 legs with Bill Parnell running the half. Parnell was unable to catch Jack Hennesey, although he was clocked in 1.56 seconds.

The "Y's" junior quarter-mile relay team won easily from the Quadra Club, clocking a fast 45.7. In the junior medley the "Y" lost to Arctic Club by a whisker.

Dawn Josephs of the "Y" placed first in the broad jump and second in the high jump. She went 17 feet 7 inches in the women's broad jump, and five feet in the high. Both jumps were better than any of her previous marks, the broad jump mark being eight inches better than her own Canadian junior record.

Duncan Ball Club Thumps Eagles In Island Loop Tilt

Handcuffing Eagle batters to two safeties after giving them a 2-to-0 lead in the first frame, Doug English continued his mastery over the local ball club by hurling Duncan Athletics to an 8-to-3 victory in a Lower Island Amateur Baseball game here Saturday night.

Up-islanders tied the score, 2 to 2, in the second, aided no little by three successive Eagle errors. They made it 3 to 2 in the third and chased southpaw Don MacKinnon from the hill with a four-round outburst in the fifth.

Bill Prior took over, giving up a singleton in the sixth. He hurled hitless ball for the next three frames.

Right fielder Bill Symes led Duncan at the plate with two singles in four trips.

Short score follows:

JOKERS RISK WIN STREAK

Undefeated in five starts, Roy Woolsey's Jokers will attempt to keep their senior B boxla record unblemished when they meet Foul Bay in the opening game of a twin bill at the Memorial Arena tonight at 7.30.

The improved Navy squad will be shooting for its first victory in the feature game against Tillicums at 9.

England Wins Cricket Test By Wide Margin

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuter)—England's cricket team today defeated the West Indies by 202 runs, ending the season's first test match, scheduled for five days, within four days.

The last West Indies batsmen offered only moderate resistance on the tricky pitch, hitting out in desperation without much hope of getting the runs needed to win.

It was England's first test victory at home since 1947.

Eric Hollies took five wickets for 63 during the West Indies' second innings and youthful Bob Berry had four for 53 to round off his successful test debut. His match totals were nine for 116.

Today's play lasted little more than an hour, the last six wickets falling for 61 runs as the losers struggled on a crumbling pitch.

England's score for the home team's two innings totalled 600. The West Indies tallied 215 in the first innings and 183 in the second.

The score card:

England, first innings 312; second innings 288.
West Indies, first innings 215.

Four-Way Tie In Utility League

Four teams, Northwestern Creamery, City Firemen, City Hall and B.C. Electric Office share first place in the Utility Softball League following last week's games.

Each of the four boasts a record of four wins and two defeats. In fifth place is City Police with six points followed by B.C.E. Transit with four, B.C. Telephone with two and Gyros with zero.

In last week's games City Police defeated B.C. Telephone, 9 to 8; B.C.E. Office walloped Gyros, 12 to 4; Firemen took a 17 to 12 slugfest from B.C.E. Transit and City Hall trimmed Northwestern 11 to 6.

PRELIMINARY BOYS GAIN FINALS

Segura Springs Major Net Upset With Five-Set Win Over Kramer

CLEVELAND (UP) — Strictly a preliminary boy on the professional tennis program until now, little, bounding Pancho Segura will be occupying the finals berth that had been reserved for tourney favorite Jack Kramer, hailed the world's greatest player.

Pancho took the berth ticket away from Kramer personally in a semifinals upset yesterday, 6-4, 8-10, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3. The usually calm, deadly Kramer was somewhat jittery and admitted that Pancho wore him out with his energetic game.

"I've no regrets about losing a match like that," said the weary Kramer. "I was tired, but I didn't let up."

The crowd at the Cleveland Skating Club worked up some mild applause for Pancho when he wrested the first set from Kramer by breaking his service in the ninth game. They gave him another little flurry of hand-clapping when he forced Kramer into 18 games in the second set.

But when big, tow-headed Jack ripped him apart in the third set, the crowd figured little Pancho had reached the end of his rope.

But the tired Pancho came back from the brief intermission full of pep again, while Kramer couldn't seem to regain his fire. When the match point was scored, Pancho still was full of bounce as he uncorked his two-handed volleys.

KOVACS FAVORED

Kramer, who appeared in the main event matches on last year's big tour after Pancho played in the preliminary, was worn out.

"I can't promise anything against Frank Kovacs," said Segura, but it was obvious that the conqueror of Kramer would be the crowd's choice. Kovacs, however, was confident, saying, "I'll win," and Riggs said Segura definitely was the "dark horse."

Kovacs, big, rawboned slugger from Oakland, Cal., also was occupying a finals berth that was reserved for somebody else—former champion Bobby Riggs. Kovacs upset Riggs in the other semifinal on Saturday.

So tonight it's the two "preliminary boys" shooting for the big prize, while stars Riggs and Kramer watch from the stands.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER

Every year it's the same story. On and on into the summer months go the footballers with their cup-ties and competitions. Watching a soccer game under a blazing summer sun can't help but make one feel limp. The feeling is reflected from the 22 sweating and grimy figures out there on the field. And managers who wonder why they can't field teams at this time of the year surely must know the answer by this time. The old complaint is that athletes don't devote enough time to one sport but are more the "jack of all trades and master of none" variety.

Another complaint heard when the city all-star team was being selected to play the English team was that certain players wouldn't give up their summer activities and devote all their time to football. Football officials must realize that it is they who are poaching upon the rights of other sports in this regard.

Extra Man No Hardship

Coach Arnold Ferguson of the Shamrocks doesn't think the seven-man game will prove any hardship on the local intercity lacrosse club. "They've all played seven-man lacrosse before," he said. However, Ferguson does believe that the game will be much rougher from now on. For every extra man out there on the floor there's bound to be more bodily contact and that alone tends to produce rougher lacrosse.

Offering no excuses for Thursday night's loss to the Adanacs, Ferguson said there was a let-down on the part of the locals and a brilliant display by the Adanacs. "They dug deep for that team," he said. "and it's the best team they will strip this season." Ferguson should know. He played with the A's for several years.

Pitching Could Be Improved

The A's return home tonight out of the cellar and looking for another outfielder to fill the shoes of Edo Vanni. When he left the club Vanni was one of the three regulars hitting above .300, Gene Thompson and K. Chorlton being the other two. Despite this fact, the A's are hitting the ball better than at any time this season. It's the pitching that has turned sour again.

Everyone said the pitchers would round into form with the coming of warm weather. But so far the weather has had little effect on the mound staff. Big John Marshall, apparently over his "peeve" against manager Marty Krug for giving Vanni "the works," is the club's most consistent performer. His earned run mark of 2.91 is one of the best in the league but the least said about other E.R.A. marks on the team the better.

Joe Blankenship Returns

Tonight also marks the return of one of the most popular ball players to ever don the uniform of the Victoria Athletics. He needs no introduction. Just mention Jo-Jo and ball fans know who you mean. Blankenship was sold to Wenatchee earlier this season when the club had more pitchers than a duck has feathers.

Well, Jo-Jo is back again and, as so often is the case, he may make the A's rue the day they chopped him off the payroll. Ball players have a nasty habit of turning against their former mates.

His Comeback Complete

Any doubts that Ben Hogan had come all the way back, following serious injuries in an automobile accident early last year, were dispelled Sunday when the game little fellow captured the United States Open golf championship in a playoff with Lloyd Mangrum and George Fazio.

Secrecy Marks Sessions Of Conference

Rose Bowl Grid Plans Up Before Delegates Here

Pacific Coast Conference delegates opened their 1950 summer sessions Sunday even before the boat docked from Seattle.

Behind closed doors at the Empress Hotel they huddled in committee meetings, then got together to hear a report from P.C.C. Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt.

What Schmidt had to say was secret, but it was known he outlined problems that have arisen since the last meeting and need the attention of representatives from the 10 members schools.

(Montana, which disclosed last night it is joining the Mountain State Conference, still is a member of the P.C.C. until its resignation is accepted.)

A separate session was held by the conference Rose Bowl committee, but this, too, was secret. Out of the four-day convention here may come a decision on whether to renew the pact with the Big Ten. The five-year agreement runs out with the coming New Year's game and is almost certain to be continued, but with some changes likely in the matter of representation.

The Big Ten has ruled that none of its teams can appear more than once in three years. The Coast Conference normally votes its champion into the bowl automatically.

ANOTHER PROBLEM

The knotty problem of junior college transfers is bound to draw conference attention. Under present regulations the jaycee athlete steps into college as a sophomore or junior, depending on whether he has had one or two years of schooling.

The P.C.C. might rule that all jaycees shall start as sophomores—or swing to the opposite extreme and consider junior college transfers the same as transfers from other four-year schools, forcing them to remain out of action a full year.

Bob Morrison Captures Eighth City Golf Title

Twenty-three years ago Bob Morrison defeated Harold Lineham for his first city golf championship.

Sunday afternoon at Colwood Golf Club Morrison won his eighth city title.

For the veteran Uplands shotmaker, however, it was his first victory in medal play. The other seven triumphs came in match play.

Morrison topped a starting field of 63 of the city's best with a 72-hole score of 299.

Sharing the lead with Eric Hibberson at 152 as he teed off in yesterday's final 36 holes, Morrison fired a three over par 73 in the morning to take a two-stroke lead over his Uplands clubmate and a three-hole margin over another Uplands member, Don Gowan.

Bill McColl of Colwood, the Empress Open champion, who was in fourth place at the start of the day's play, found himself six strokes off the pace at the end of 54 holes but made a terrific bid on the final 18 holes to finish in second place, four strokes behind Morrison.

The Morrison - McColl battle was the feature of the final round.

Morrison was four over at the end of the first nine while McColl was out in even par and only two strokes behind as they started the final nine.

Morrison bogeyed the 11th and McColl got his par three to shave the margin to one stroke but on the 12th and 13th, Morrison fired a pair of birdie threes to go three strokes ahead.

BOB MORRISON
. . . does it again

McColl still had a faint hope as late as the 16th hole being one under par. Needing a birdie to tie, McColl bumped into trouble and ended up with a 72, two over regulation figures.

In winning the title Morrison shot the best 36-hole round of the day, 74-73—147.

HIBBERSON FALTERS

Eric Hibberson, who started the day in a first-place tie, had a 75 in the morning but blew to an 83 in the afternoon. Gowan, the third-place finisher with 307, also had a 75 in the morning but found the wind troublesome in the afternoon and ended up with a 79.

Laurie Kerr finished in a fourth-place tie with Hibberson with a 72-hole total of 310.

Defending champion Vic Painter was sixth with 311.

Painter and McColl tied for the best 18-hole score of the tourney, shooting 72's on their final round.

Low net winner was G. Bowden with 283. Tied for the runner-up position were R. Carroll, S. Spaven and D. Barton with 284's.

Hibberson took the first 36 holes low gross prize with 152, Painter the second 36 holes low gross with 151. Low net for the first and second 36 holes went to J. Baxter and J. R. Clark, respectively.

Included in the special prize list were 18-hole low gross shared by Painter and McColl and low net won by G. Bowden with 63.

Prize winners who have not received their prizes may call for them at the Colwood Club.

Vets Retain Mastery Over Victoria United

The Legion has done it again. For the fourth straight year the vets have knocked Victoria United out of the Province Cup soccer series.

As a matter of fact United has never beaten the Legion.

The latest chapter in the amazing story was written at Macdonald Park Saturday afternoon as the vets moved into the local Province Cup finals alongside Heaney's with a 5 to 3 win over the Coast Leaguers, while the cartagemen were downing Duncan Native Sons by the same score.

Starting with what wind there was at their backs, the Vets surprised the Coast League entry and a sparse shirt-sleeved crowd with a goal in the opening minutes of play, Charlie Constable scoring.

Jim Davison then put the vets two up when his corner kick curved beautifully into the corner of the twine, barely grazing Murray Speller's head as it caught the rigging.

Down two goals, United got one marker before half-time when a Legion defender attempting to clear put the ball in his own net.

Gordie Bell of United knotted the count shortly after the second half with the best goal of the match, but the vets bounced back to score three fast goals as time was running out. Ab Travis counted United's final tally on a penalty.

Constable Tommy Fallon and Len Potter got Legion's second-half markers.

Joe Robbins paced Heaney's to their 5 to 3 win over Duncan as he scored three goals.

Tommy Walker and Jack Donald scored the other markers with Francis Johnnie, Charlie Williams and Fred Johnnie finding the hemp for the up-islands. Heaney's led 2 to 1 at the intermission.

Heaney's and Legion will meet in the Island final of the cup-tie series at Macdonald Park on Saturday. Winner will advance into the semi-finals with three mainland clubs.

Colwood Pair Retain Brooches

Mrs. H. T. Matson and Miss Elizabeth Paynter of Colwood Golf Club successfully defended the E. D. Todd ladies' golf brooches Sunday.

Playing over the friendly terrain of their home course the Colwood pair scored a 4 and 2 victory over Miss Shirley Fry and Dorothy Herbertson.

SOLARIUM CUP FINAL SUNDAY

The Solarium Cup soccer final between Oak Bay and Duncan Native Sons will be played at Heywood Avenue on Sunday.

UNCLE RAY

Is Norway a big country or a little country?

The answer to that question must be given in two parts. In population, Norway is small, having only about half as many people as London, the capital of Great Britain. In area, however, this country of northwestern Europe is fairly large. It has more square miles than Great Britain, Holland and Switzerland together!

The majority of the square mile in Norway are of little importance in producing food or other goods. Much of the land is inside the Arctic Circle; it is famed because people go there to see the "midnight sun," but it has more glaciers than gardens.

Most of the people in Norway live in the southern part of the country. They have farms in valleys, and raise crops of several kinds.

Switzerland is famed for its beautiful mountains, but it seems to me that Norway should have equal fame for beauty. Norway has excellent mountains, and in addition has fiords (also spelled "fjords.")

A Fiord is a kind of salt-water river. It is an arm of the sea, but it got its start from a river valley with fresh water flowing through it.

The story which science tells is like this:

Long ago, various rivers emptied into the sea along the Norwegian coast. Then the Ice Age arrived, and the valleys became choked with ice, which moved slowly toward the sea. These were "valley glaciers," which may be described as "rivers of ice."

As the valley glaciers moved toward the sea, they gouged into the river bottoms. In this way the bottoms were deepened, and in many places came to be under the level of the sea.

In addition, there was sinking of the land about the coast of Norway. This also worked to make the old river beds lower than the level of the sea. Some fiords have beds which are hundreds of feet below the water surface.

The Ice Age is now a thing of the past. I saw several fiords in southern Norway, but not a single glacier was moving down them. Instead I beheld scenery of breath-taking beauty. Tall mountains rise on either side of the fiords, and some fiords go inland mile after mile.

WOMAN LIVES AFTER FALL OF 700 FEET

WEST JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP)—A young West Jefferson woman miraculously escaped death or serious injury Sunday in a fall of nearly 700 feet from Outlook Rock on Negro Mountain near here.

Mrs. Annie Pruitt Wyrick, 24, fell from the rock, a favorite sightseeing spot, when she got too close to the edge while picking a flower.

About 100 feet of the fall was a sheer drop and the rest down a precipitous slope. The young woman was knocked out for about 45 minutes but when a searching party arrived near the scene she was sitting up and calling for help.

She suffered painful cuts and bruises. But no bones were broken.

Group Of Intellectuals Accuses U.S. Of Not Encouraging World Policy Of Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sixteen scientists, educators and clergymen accused the United States today of paying lip service to disarmament while actually discouraging such a step.

In a report signed by scientist Albert Einstein and the novelist Louis Bromfield, among others, the group said:

"Officially appointed representatives to the United Nations tell the world that the United States wants disarmament and only Russia stands in the way. Yet other American officials do what they can to discourage disarment.

"In the United States there are vested economic interests with a stake in a large military budget. There is also an emotional attachment to armaments as well as a high degree of military leadership and influence in policy-making branches of government."

The group, which issued its report through the National Council Against Conscription, urged immediate steps toward total world disarmament, saying none of the great powers has ever really made a move in this direction.

"Neither Russia nor the United States has given a clear indication that it wants to get out of the war system," the report said. "Neither has pressed disarmament as if it were a major aim of national policy.

Business Thrives In U.S. But Prices Still Climbing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rising United States retail prices will go still higher, assembly lines this month may set a peacetime record, business is thriving, and Washington's economists wonder: Can this last?

The experts agree there is vast, proven strength underlying today's economy, and room for greater growth. Another six months of prosperity is taken for granted.

There are 2,778,000 more jobs than three months ago, and 1,627,000 fewer jobless men. Profits are higher than last year's. Stocks are flirting with a four-year record. Even the federal deficit is diminishing.

The chance of inflation is discounted too. But tensions have developed in several fields which officials eye with apprehension. Among them:

Credit: Consumer credit, mostly the easy-payment kind, is moving towards an all-time peak. At $18,600,000,000 it now is almost one-fifth higher than a year ago.

Building: A housing boom unparalelled since the '20s is driving up prices of lumber, gymsum and other materials. The price of the end-product—new houses—may start climbing again.

Landsakes... I guess I do use Nickel

"Bacon, meat, canned vegetables and fruits are all processed in plants where gleaming Nickel alloys keep them clean. And salt—you know how it rusts most metals. 'Monel' equipment is used in the salt refinery too because it lasts longer, keeps the salt pure."

"My sheets and pillow cases come back from the laundry white as snow because 'Monel' equipment is used in washing them. 'Monel' does not rust or stain. It wears longer."

"The heating elements of my toaster, range and percolator all last longer because they are made of Nickel alloys. My knives, forks and spoons are made of a silvery metal composed of nickel, copper and zinc, then silver plated."

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees and also help pay railwaymen, lumbermen, steel and iron workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

St. Laurent Urges Action On St. Lawrence Plan

Says U.S. Should End Delay And Start Work With Canada On Power Scheme

CANTON, N.Y. (CP)—Another appeal for action on the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project was made by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the convocation of St. Lawrence University here Sunday.

The Canadian Prime Minister, receiving an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, said Canadians "are getting rather impatient about the delay" in starting the project, which he said would benefit all parts of the continent.

Elaborating on a similar appeal he made recently, Mr. St. Laurent declared:

"I said we in Canada were getting rather impatient. After all, it is 18 years since the first agreement which we were ready to carry out failed to get sufficient support in the United States Congress, and it is nine years since we made the second agreement.

"Our need in Canada is urgent, particularly for more electrical energy. If the Niagara diversion treaty can be quickly ratified by your Senate, that will help; but both countries need, and we in Canada certainly want, to get ahead with the larger scheme."

The Prime Minister also called for co-operation in defence production and said the devastating Manitoba floods have given new urgency to the problems of conservation and flood prevention in the middle of the continent.

Mr. St. Laurent remarked that he had received an honorary degree only a few days ago from St. Louis University; now he had one from St. Lawrence. "I am just a little afraid that since my name happens to be Louis St. Laurent—some pronounce it St. Lawrence—there may be a good many people who will think I must be totally lacking in modesty in allowing this to occur."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Season For Hayfever Ready With Pollens

The season for hay fever is under way. Some unfortunate people start with their sneezing and running noses during the spring and keep it up almost continuously until late fall. This deplorable situation is usually the result of being sensitive to a great many different pollens from growing things.

In many areas treees are the first of the pollens likely to cause trouble. These are followed by the grasses — and occasionally other plants pollinating at the same season—and ending up with the ragweed which are the worst of all.

The tree pollens are not as common sources of difficulty as either the grasses or the ragweeds. Although the pines and their relatives are great pollen producers they do not usually cause allergic symptoms. Most of the hay fever caused by tree pollens can be traced to the hardwood trees and to some of the shrubs.

CLOSELY RELATED

Pollens from beech, birch cottonwood, aspen, alder, and willow are closely related and are fairly common causes for allergy. Of course, they pollinate at different times and are absent from some parts of the country.

Oaks are probably the most important of all the trees so far as allergies are concerned. There are many different kinds of oaks and they pollinate longer than most trees. They grow over a great part of the country and they shed a lot of pollen. When there is a question of sensitiveness to tree pollen, the pollens from several different kinds of trees are generally used in skin testing.

WORST IN FALL

Unpleasant as hay fever from tree pollen may be, it is not as serious as that from ragweed, the usual season for which is in the late summer and early fall. Not so many people are sensitive to tree pollens, the season is likely to be shorter and the symptoms are often milder than those from fall hay fever.

Like other pollen sensitiveness, it is possible to prepare a mixture of tree pollens and inject it into a sensitive person often thereby bringing about relief of symptoms. Whether the effort and cost are worthwhile, however, has to be decided in each individual case.

ANSWERS TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"Do you know," said Generous George, "you've been so nice to me lately that I really feel like doing something for you. As a small token of my esteem for you I will let you have this trick free, gratis, and for nothing."

"Don't do me any favors," growled West. "I've had some of your gifts before."

West didn't know exactly what to suspect, but he was right to be suspicious. He knew from experience that George was most dangerous when he was apparently giving something away.

The situation in question was the very first trick of the hand. West had led the jack of spades, whereupon Generous George, who was playing the South hand, had made his little speech. George then played a low spade from the dummy!

A close examination of the hand shows that George had not been so generous after all. The play of the low spade from dummy, although it appeared to give up a spade trick to West, actually assured the contract.

It didn't matter what West led at the second trick. West dared not touch the trumps, so South was able to ruff his diamonds with dummy's trumps.

As the hand was actually played, West shifted to the queen of diamonds since he correctly feared that a second spade lead would set up a trick for South.

George took the king of diamonds and dummy's top clubs. He next cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond in dummy. He returned to his hand by ruffing a club and ruffed his last diamond in dummy. He then cheerfully gave up two trump tricks to West, making his contract.

If the queen of spades is played from dummy at the first trick, East wins with the ace and returns his singleton trump. This allows West to win two high trumps and lead his last trump.

Now South is doomed. He has already lost three tricks and must lose one of his low diamonds. The kind of spades offers a discard for one of the diamonds, but the removal of all the trumps prevents South from ruffing any diamonds in the dummy.

It is interesting to note that East could not defeat Generous George by overtaking his partner's jack of spades with the ace. That would set up dummy's king and queen of spades, after which declarer would need no diamond ruffs.

MONTREAL (CP) — Imperial Press Conference delegates will leave here tonight for Ottawa at the conclusion of the second round of their meetings in several Canadian centres.

The first was in Quebec, where most overseas delegates landed last week from the liner Empress of Scotland.

The 80 delegates, 64 from Commonwealth countries and the rest from Canada, were received at the city hall here this afternoon and were guests of the Newsprint Association of Canada at a luncheon. They will visit the Montreal's Men's Press Club in the evening.

While delegates were touring the city, their wives were received by the Montreal branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club.

The only woman delegate, Hon. Mabel Strickland, O.B.E., member of the St. John Council of Malta and publisher of the Times of Malta, and Lady Violet Astor, St. John Ambulance Brigade's county president for Kent, England, were guests of honor at a reception by the brigade's Quebec branch.

Delegates attended a garden party Sunday at the suburban Dorval home of J. W. McConnell, publisher of the Montreal Daily Star and associate newspapers.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

WHEN YOU THINK of summer holiday preparations in Victoria, you begin to realize how civilization is crowding in on the modern kid. There was a time when a youngster was turned out to grass when school closed. For a couple of months he was a happy young animal in pasture. Provided he did his chores and got home at reasonable hours for meals, he was pretty well left on his own for the rest of the day.

Now he's organized. He has to be. There isn't enough pasture to go around. There are houses on the fields where his father used to play. He can have his games—plenty of them—in the parks, but there has to be some direction there. When he's directed, when he's in a ball game under supervision, he isn't his own man the same way a boy was 25 years ago. If he pulls out of the game in the middle of the fourth inning and heads for the beach for a swim, he's anti-social. Maybe he doesn't know what that means, but he's it anyhow.

GROUP PLAY used to be a fairly simple proposition in the old school holidays. A boy had breakfast and then headed for the gang's hangout. In his pocket he probably had an old tennis ball with the cover worn off. That and a hunk of beachwood he'd fashioned into a bat with his old man's draw-knife, were all the equipment he needed to play ball. It helped if he had shoes when the hay had been cut and the stubble was sharp underfoot, but bare feet got pretty tough after a week or two.

THERE WASN'T much trouble about picking sides. The big fellow who could lick everybody else in the gang, chose one team. The boy who could lick everybody but one, named the other.

It was a bit primitive, and the games sometimes broke up with a batter, using his bat as a club, chasing the pitcher, until the rest of the crowd intervened. There was, though, a certain natural leadership in it, and a certain team loyalty that prevented mayhem.

Down on the beach the same caste system applied. There were some variations based on swimming and diving ability, but the boss of the gang stayed boss, until somebody with a more effective pair of fists deposed him.

There was democracy there, too. Everybody gathered wood for the beach fire before the swimming started. A boy who wouldn't bring his share, didn't stand around the fire.

AT FOUL BAY, a youngster who couldn't swim wasn't admitted to the preferred circle at High Rock. That's a little point that rises steeply from the deep water and has on it a small shelf hollowed by the heat of hundreds of fires, where the elect gathered. If you stepped out of line at High Rock—and the code was rigid on certain points—you were thrown in. If you couldn't swim, you didn't try to mingle with the crowd around the fire.

All that is part of another day. The fields are gone. High Rock is private property. The idea of playing baseball with a wornout tennis ball and a cedar bat is more than faintly ridiculous to the modern youngster. He has to conform to the mold of his times. He's organized and he's well-equipped.

The boy today who shows an interest in boats, is helped to buy one, or has one bought for him. Making a dugout from a cedar log on the sand is as rare an occupation as it's getting to be among the Indians, whose example-setting craftsmen are dying off. The slab with a pointed end that was once the small boy's raft, has been replaced by the kayak.

IT'S AGAINST the law now to light fires on the beach. They still lift tongues of flame to the sky at night in a resurgence of an old pagan ritual, but unless they're covered by a special permit, they're illegal.

The fire chief, who was a boy himself once and who liked his bonfires as well as the next, fixes a jaundiced eye on the beach fire. Too many young people have lit them, heaped wood on them, and then walked away. An hour or two later, sometimes at 2 or 3 in has sprung up and the blaze has worried owners and occuhad worried owners and occupants of beach cottages or adjacent homes. It's too risky, the beach fire, unless it's put out. When it brings firemen out on special runs, takes them away from the station at a time when more important calls might be made on them, it's a menace.

Civilization is crowding the modern youngster. He can't be turned out to grass in the summer as he once was. Let's remember that when we complain that he's being over-organized from above in this day and age.

Fliers Stage Contests At Patricia Bay

About a dozen members of the Victoria Flying Club took full advantage of blue skies over Patricia Bay airport Sunday to run off three competitions.

Barney Kent was winner of a balloon-busting contest in which balloons were released at 1,500 feet and pilots attempted to burst them with their propellers.

In a similar contest, ribbons of paper were released at 3,000 feet and the planes attempted to make as many cuts as possible down to a minimum of 1,000 feet.

Bob Miller and Bill Taylor tied for top honors, each with seven cuts.

Miller was in a first-place tie again when he came out even with Joe Howroyd in the spot-landing contest.

BREAKFAST FLIGHT

Several planes from the local club will take off from Patricia Bay airport at 9 next Sunday morning for a breakfast flight to Chilliwack. They will remain at the Fraser Valley town till about noon.

Saturday afternoon a swarm of light planes over the city attracted the attention of Victorians as they buzzed in a circle then headed southeast.

They were the 20 aircraft of the Washington State Flying Farmers' Association who were heading for Seattle after an overnight visit at Patricia Bay.

Takes Care Of Her Pennies

Mrs. Shirley Burnell of city comptroller's department is one girl who really counts her pennies . . . thousands of them from city's parking meters. She is shown at her little coin-counting machine which automatically counts and packages 50 pennies at a time. Box at her side holds 16,000. Yes, Mrs. Burnell says she does count pennies, not sheep, in her sleep.

Garagemen Not Satisfied With City's Revised Closing By-Law

City Council's proposal to allow some gasoline service stations to remain open until midnight in its revised by-law, has not met with approval of the Garage and Motor Trades Association of B.C., Victoria branch.

The association had petitioned for a new by-law but for only two classes of service, 10-hour and 24-hour. They did not want a midnight closing class.

Council at its last meeting also decided to appoint the chief of police or his deputy to designate which stations would remain open all night, which until midnight and those until 6 in the evening.

In a letter received by M. Frank Hunter, city clerk, today, H. F. Davis, manager of the association, urged regulation of permits be left up to the whole council.

"To place this authority in the hands of one person is unfair to the party concerned," he wrote. "Any one person could be subjected to pressure from strong interests and the official would be under constant criticism."

WANTS TO EXPLAIN

Mr. Davis asked that the association be permitted to make a representation before Council to explain the position of the operators more fully.

With regard to a midnight closing, the association contends that if such a class is permitted, 24-hour stations now serving the public would close at midnight, thus "depriving the motoring public of any service after that time."

"Due to the small amount of business and the high cost of labor, the hours between midnight and 8 in the morning are unprofitable and considered economically unsound," Mr. Davis wrote.

INDUCEMENT OFFERED

"To entice a certain number to remain open during these hours, some inducement had to be offered, and this inducement consisted of regulating the classes of service so that only a certain number would be open, thus giving these 24-hour operators an opportunity to obtain enough business to offset the heavy costs."

Mr. Davis said the association had studied the matter over the years to make certain there would be a service for 24 hours provided for tourists and the motoring public generally who might be in need during the night hours.

JOCKEY, COBBLER

Ted Hawkes, 52, Loses To Great War Wound

By TOM MERRIMAN

WARD B, VETERANS' HOSPITAL.—Many of the old soldiers in this hospital were saddened by the news that Ted Hawkes first war veteran who had been battling to restore his health here for several months, had lost the fight. He died here Friday.

A man of extraordinary activity, Ted had been battling a war disability since the days he was a youthful returned soldier in Esquimalt Hospital in 1918.

His life was like that of a character in an Horatio Alger story.

As a boy in London he was trained as a jockey. As Ted told the story with no reproaches, his education suffered for the glamour of being a successful jockey and when increasing weight put him out of the sport he was at a disadvantage in establishing himself.

He was laboriously educating himself in the three R's when World War 1 broke out. He served with the 72nd Battalion.

BECAME COBBLER

Wounded and back in Canada, Ted give serious consideration to his future.

His lack of education shut many commercial doors to him so he took one of the most practical courses offered under the vocational training plan. He selected the course in shoe-repairing.

It was a far cry from the glamour of the race track to a cobbler's bench but Ted had made his choice and worked hard for success. For the first year he solicited business door-to-door in the neighborhood of his shop. Soon this was unnecessary and he had a thriving small business. It was not enough, however, to satisfy his ambition in life.

In his shoe store in Saanich he opened a small real estate business. In these busy days too he also studied extensively and successfully to secure that education he had missed as a boy.

"At 15," he once told me, "I could not read or write my own name." The real state business prospered.

It was not long before he dropped his shoe repairing to devote his whole time to it. He also took a keen interest in Saanich politics and was pressed to run for reeve. He transferred his real estate business to Victoria and it expanded rapidly.

STILL HAD HORSES

He built a country home of which he was proud. He indulged his love for horses by buying a racehorse for riding purposes only as he retained no great interest in track racing.

On his little estate also he kept a number of Shetland ponies to the great delight of many children who were his frequent guests.

"No spurs for the horse, no whips, for the ponies" was one of his orders, probably inspired by the days when he had had to drive a horse past the winning post.

Ted had arrived at a point where he could ease off on business while a partner and staff carried on; enjoy his country home, his horse and his ponies, when his old war disability drove him back to his last trip to hospital.

Fire Hall Permit

City building department today issued a permit to J. Lambie and Son, contractors, for erection of the new James Bay fire hall at a cost of $14,800.

450 Shriners To See City On Way To U.S. Meeting

Four hundred and fifty members of the Zor Shrine Temple of Madison, Wis., decided not to pass up Victoria while on their way to attend the annual session of the Imperial Council of the Shrine to be held at Los Angeles June 19 to 23.

The party, which includes the Madison Shriners' drum and bugle corps, chanters, saxophone sextette, Oriental, Booster Band, 24 clowns and 50-piece concert band, will visit Victoria Wednesday. On their arrival at the C.P.R. docks, they will parade to the Empress Hotel.

All Victoria Gizeh Temple Shrine club members will meet the visiting party at the C.P.R. docks. The visitors will be entertained at a luncheon at the Empress Hotel and will later present a band concert on the front veranda of the hotel.

The Madison Shriners will leave Victoria at 5.30 the same day.

The Los Angeles convention will also be attended by 50 Victoria Shriners.

Warren Denies Bureau Here 'Hogging' Tourist Industry

Up-Island Chambers Given Fair Offer To See Methods, He Says

"In view of the fact the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is maintained without any financial support outside the Greater Victoria area, I believe we are being more than fair in the offer made up-island chambers of commerce," George I. Warren, bureau commissioner, said today in answer to charges made by up-island chambers that Victoria was "hogging the tourist industry on the island."

The offer Mr. Warren referred to concerned the invitation to up-island representatives to come and see how the bureau functioned, offer criticisms and suggestions.

First complaints from up-island chambers were received about two years ago, Mr. Warren said. At that time he extended the invitation, and reiterated it last year at a meeting with up-island groups.

This year, the Courtenay, Comox and Port Alberni Chambers got together and sent down a young woman, Miss Anne McLeod, on June 1. She was to work in the local bureau with the purpose of promoting up-island tourist attractions.

In a five-minute interview with Miss McLeod, Mr. Warren said he found she was not suitable for the position, being unfamiliar with the western area of Vancouver Island and particularly the Albernis.

Further charges followed when the young woman returned to Courtenay two days later saying she had been ordered to say nothing to tourists regarding the northern area unless specifically asked.

It was not the policy of the bureau to direct tourists to any particular part of the island unless an interest was shown, Mr. Warren said.

POLICE SEEK YOUNG THUG

City police today were still looking for the youth who strong-armed young Gordon Brown, 919½ Gordon Street, Saturday night and took $2.50 from him. Robbery took place while Brown was walking along Gordon Street. Police are looking for a boy said to be quite fat.

Pest Menace Increased By Air Transport

Air transport has multiplied the menace of spreading insect pests, according to Dr. Walter Carter, entomologist from Hawaii, who is visiting Victoria en route to Santa Cruz, where he will attend a meeting of the Association of American Economic Entomologist.

He is staying with his brother, Wing Cmdr. Albert Carter, 842 Selkirk Avenue, whom he has not seen since 1924.

Dr. Carter, head entomologist of the Pineapple Research Institute and director of the Federal Oriental Fruit Fly Investigation Project, said new insects are being found in greater numbers since air travel has increased.

FUMIGATED

He said for that reason departing aircraft at Hawaii were thoroughly fumigated.

Dr. Carter added the main insect problem in Hawaii now was the Oriental fruit fly, which he claimed would seriously threaten the California fruit industry if it managed to establish itself in the United States.

So serious is the threat from the fly that the United States government and six private agencies were spending $800,000 annually to fight it, the visitor said.

Saanich Pioneer's Daughter Dies

Georgina Rosella Boughton, born in North Saanich and the youngest daughter of the late Henry Brethour, a Saanich pioneer, died Saturday in Vancouver.

Besides her husband, George E. Boughton, she leaves a son and granddaughter, three brothers, one of Sidney, one of Vancouver and the other of Glendale, Calif., and two sisters, one of Victoria and the other from Sidney.

Funeral services will be held in Vancouver Tuesday.

NOTHING STOLEN

Stanley Robinson, 1508 Bank Street, reported to city police nothing was missing after a thief had entered his home Saturday. Entry was gained by going up the fire escape and through a kitchen window left insecure.

Sunshine Camp Seeks Sponsors

The Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society's Sunshine Camp at Sooke, which is operated on a non-profit basis for the benefit of under-privileged children, members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and other groups, is in need of sponsors for three cabins.

The camp has meant holiday pleasure for many Victorians, and any person, organization or service club can help the summer camp program by sponsorship of one of the three remaining unsponsored cabins.

Work parties from the Y.W.C.A. and four members of the aid society worked Saturday to put the camp in shape for the summer season.

Fairfield Rovers Attend Jamboree

Members of the Fairfield Rover Crew of Victoria attended the third annual jamboree of the Alberni Valley District Scout Association held in Alberni Recreation Park Saturday. Scouts, cubs and girl guides from all parts of Vancouver Island took part in the event.

The Victoria group, under the leadership of Richard Warner, gave an interesting display of first aid work.

SAANICH FIRE

Saanich firemen early Sunday morning put out a parlor fire in the home of F. E. Pessaro, 337 Vincent Avenue. Cause of the fire has not been determined, but flames damaged a chesterfield and a wall.

United Church Jubilee Service Attracts 3,000

More than 3,00 people attended the 25th anniversary of the United Church of Canada in Beacon Hill Park on Sunday afternoon.

The service was conducted by Rev. W. R. Ashford of Centennial United Church, chairman of Victoria Presbytery. Dr. W. G. Wilson, who was minister of First United Church at the time of union and was one of the active members of the church union committee, preached the sermon.

Dr. Andrew Reid conducted the main prayers, while Rev. C. R. McGillivray pronounced the benediction. Scripture was read by Dr. A. E. Whitehouse. Rev. J. C. Jackson made announcements and gave the offertory prayer.

A massed United Church choir of 190 voices sang under the leadership of J. Roberto Wood, with Edgar Holloway at the organ. The musical selections were "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "The Hallelujah Chorus."

Nurses' Uniforms, Hosiery In Supply At Little Shop

By PENNY SAVER

Have you ever passed a shop sometime during the early evening, stopped and thought, "gosh, the next time I'm up this way again I must drop in to see their wares." That's the way it was with me and a little lingerie shop in "theatre row." This morning though, I finally made a point of skidaddling up that way just to take a peek over the counters and on the shelves. I was very pleasantly surprised with what I found, thank you.

First off, I find that shop caters a good deal to nurses of this city. Beautifully tailored uniforms in nylon, poplins and sharkskin, ranging in price from $4.95 to $9.95.

The nylon uniform offers, of course, a great deal less in the way of work. You can have your uniform washed, ironed and ready to wear within a half hour. Styled with zipper or buttons, in either long or short sleeves, the nylon beauties sell for $9.95.

Poplins, featuring side fastenings, pockets, Peter Pan collars, will cost you anywhere from $4.95 to $7.95. Sharkskin uniforms with pin tucking on the collar and cuffs, sell for $8.50. By the way, all uniforms have detachable buttons and in case you've been one woman whose belt has gone astray many of the uniforms in that shop sport a set-in belt.

Stockings for the lady in white, range from $1.25 to $1.50. For real comfort there is the $1.25 stocking that is semi-fashioned nylon with a no-seam lisle foot. For dressier wear you'll find the white nylon selling for $1.50.

While talking about stockings, the attractive woman in that shop, interrupted our conversation to show me a seemply gorjus pair of nylons that looked as if they had been spun by a spider. By name, they are known as nylon lace and are yours for, if you'll pardon the price, $2.25. For smart after-five wear you can choose a light shade Elegant or for darker clothes there's Twilight. They really are something to shout about.

Looking around the rest of the shop I spotted housecoats, blouses, sweaters and lingerie for milady, from mere pennies to dollars, according to your budget for the month. Don't you just love the personal attention you get in a little shop? I know I do.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: Don't you think that a man who marries a pretty slim girl, who gorges herself on food and gets fat as soon as she has safely landed her man, has a right to feel that he has been taken in under false representations of the goods he was investing his all in? I think that a woman who has not enough self-control to deny her appetite has no right to complain if her husband has not enough self-control to keep from running after slim young women.

BACHELOR.

Answer: Fat is a matter of taste. In the Orient beauty is assessed by the pound, and the more a woman weighs, the more beautiful and alluring she is esteemed. It is only among western people that bones are more admired than flesh, and that the living skeleton has become the standard type of beauty to which all women aspire.

MRS. HODGES SPEAKS AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Nancy Hodges' new job as speaker of the British Columbia Legislature doesn't mean she can forget her duties as a housewife, she told the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club Saturday:

"The British Columbia Legislature is the only one in the Commonwealth where the Speaker has to rush home each day to get dinner ready."

The past president of the National Federation of Liberal Women told her audience there could not be a single person elected to the House of Commons—"in any capacity"—unless that person had made a complete tour of Canada, "from one end of the country to the other."

She said she found little good in sectionalism. She was "amused" to find people in this part of the country talking about Winnipeg as the "far west."

"Why, you don't reach the far west until you come to Vancouver or Victoria, where I came from."

FINGERPRINTS DON'T LIE

THE STORY: Refusing to believe that fingerprint evidence proves that her fiance, Paul Moody, killed her father, Azalea Palmer engages private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. As Queripel and Harley Kenyon, the lawyer who is to defend Paul, question the girl she reveals that during the murder investigation police detective James Stivers warned another detective, Pete Kelso, to stay away from the telephone which had been used to bludgeon Wendell Palmer, Azalea's father, to death. Timothy O'Hea, Queripel's assistant, reveals that Kelso is "as bad as they make 'em." Azalea has just left Queripel's office.

INSTALLMENT 29

Martin Queripel and Harley Kenyon stood for a long moment lost in the gloom left when Azalea Palmer's bright presence was absence. Queripel broke it with a confession:

"I'm curious to see what kind of man could inspire such a girl to such devotion."

"So and I," said Kenyon with such ardor that Queripel laughed:

"Jealous?"

"Maybe I am at that," said Kenyon. "You'd better come along with me to the jail."

There was no difficulty about securing the interview. An officer brought Paul Moody into the conference room and the young sculptor came in almost as heavily and coldly as if he were one of his own statues moving. He was grim and bitter and almost petrified with rage and wonder at his own helplessness and humiliation.

Queripel introduced himself and Kenyon and said:

"We came at the request of Miss Azalea Palmer—or rather at her command."

TENDER SMILE

The mere sound of her name brought Moody's whole frame alive as by a miracle. The words "at her command" mobilized his carven features into a smile so tender and so lovingly amused that both of the visitors understood why a girl might love him and believe in him.

There was no hint of craft or self-satisfaction in that smile.

"How is she? I could kill myself for adding to what she's suffering for the father she loved as if he were her child—a bitter, brutal child, but her own."

His look of rigid agony turned into a kind of almost laughter as Queripel described Azalea's descent upon his office, her demand for his help, and her lofty scorn for mere fingerprints. He told of calling in Kenyon, and Azalea's prayer that Paul accept their services to save her from despair. He added:

"She told me that if I didn't do as she said, she'd murder me. But she gave no orders to you—only her prayers."

"They're orders to me," said Paul. "I can't pay you much. And I don't know when I can pay you. Of course, my father and mother want to mortgage their home and engage the most expensive lawyers. But I'd rather go to the gas chamber than rob them of the last little security they have skimped and scraped to build up all their long lean lives.

BROKEN PLAN

"One of the first things I had planned to do, when I got that big commission for the National Electric statue group, was to give them some comfort, but Azalea's father for some reason of his own, wrecked that hope. Azalea, though, agreed to live with me on my next-to-nothing. In fact, I came back to my studio to telephone her to meet me and get married that very day. But I was arrested and—here I am instead of on my honeymoon."

"Tell us just what happened," said Queripel. "And remember one thing. As I told your Azalea: 'Never lie to your doctor or your lawyer' needs one amendment; 'Never try to do deceive your detective.' Tell us just what occurred as you saw it."

Paul hesitated a moment to collect and arrange his thoughts. Then he said:

"I got the bad news that I had lost my big commission just as I was going into a tennis tournament. Well, I was pretty hot under the collar. I couldn't even finish the set. I had to be a bad sport and default.

"As a last resort I went to see Azalea's father. I was angry, but couldn't have killed him, no matter what he said or did. What good would it have done me? It wouldn't have won the commission back. It would have robbed me of my—of Azalea—as it has already done.

"I took a bus to the nearest corner and walked to the house. The old man was alone. He answered the door himself."

"Did anyone see you go in?" said Queripel.

HIT BY SKATERS

"Yes. I saw a woman looking out of a window. And a boy and a girl roller skating ran slambang into me. I laughed and they watched me go up the steps, then they rolled away.

"The old man answered the bell and didn't want to let me in; but I pushed him back and insisted on being heard.

"He was in an unusually ugly mood and seemed to have something else on his mind. What it was I don't know except I remember his saying, 'Everybody is after my money. You and—and—well, that's none of your business. Why don't you go and earn some honest money instead of trying to be a parasite on other people?'

"He was old, and Azalea's father, and I answered gently: 'That's just what I'm trying to do, Mr. Palmer. How would you have felt when you earned your first hundred thousand if somebody had snatched it away out of spite?' He merely sniffed and snorted at that."

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Child Actor Back To Play In Rootin', Tootin' Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most famous student of Montgomery Bell Academy, Nashville, Tenn., is back in Hollywood for his first grown-up role.

He is Claude Jarman Jr. who once played the wistful deer-lover in "The Yearling." The reason he is playing a grown-up role is obvious: he now is a towering six feet, two inches.

The blond southerner is still on the sunny side of 16 years, but in John Ford's "Rio Bravo" he'll play a young man of 18.

"This is the best role Claude has had since 'The Yearling,'" his father remarked at lunch.

"Except 'Intruder in the Dust'," corrected young Claude. He was obviously enthusiastic about the role.

"Gee, I get an arrow in my shoulder, get horse-whipped and everything," he said with glee. Everything, that is, except romantic interest. He is still too young to make that convincing. The romance department will feature John Wayne and Maureen O'Hara.

Claude recently cut himself adrift from the home lot, M-G-M, and is free-lancing.

"The studio was very nice to Claude," said the elder Jarman, although the young actor was "left on the cutting room floor" in his last picture, "The Outriders."

"I don't know why Claude was put in the picture in the first place," the father added.

Claude wasn't the only child actor to yeave the M-G-M lot. Five years ago there were 19 in the studio school; today there are two—Dean Stockwell and Gary Gray.

"Children are just too expensive for the studios," explained the elder Jarman. "When they are working, school teachers, welfare workers and other special help have to be hired. And the kids can only work four hours a day. That makes it hard on the shooting schedule."

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Large-Scale Land Play Continues In Northwest

By C. V. MYERS

CALGARY — Another 400,000 acres of Crown exploration reservation in northwest Alberta have been issued, continuing the large-scale land play in that part of the province.

Half the new land was acquired by the California Standard Company, while Gulf and the Hudson's Bay-Union Oil of California team each took about 100,000 acres.

The new Cal-Standard holdings are the northernmost of the newly issued reservations. They are 180 miles north of Peace River.

The 100,000 acres taken out by Gulf is a little over 100 miles northwest of Peace River, and joins on to a similar spread taken out by Gulf last week under the name of Canadian Northern Plains Oil Company.

Three hundred miles north-northwest of Edmonton, the H.B.-Union team added another 100,000 acres to the 600,000 acres which it took out a week ago.

In central Alberta, 40 miles southeast of Redwater, a 28,977-acre reservation was issued to Robert E. Hibbert.

Several more Woodbend wells are in prospect for Anglo-Home, C. and E. following a high D-2 contact for Imperial North Woodbend No. 1. Imperial has a 50 per cent interest in the 960-acre block, Home and Anglo 20 per cent each, and C. and E. 10 per cent.

The well is a mile north of the most northerly Woodbend production.

Leduc Consolidated has obtained an 80-acre farmout adjoining Leduc Calmar on the west. The farmout agreement was obtained from Imperial Oil.

While this announcement has not been made officially by Leduc Consolidated, it is learned on highly reliable authority that it is true.

MARKET REVIEW

Another Day Of Gains For Many Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Western Oil stocks surged ahead over a broad front on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Almost all western oil stocks trading climbed steadily higher into new high price territory following strong advances to the highest average price level in 13 years last week.

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were mainly stronger near the final hour on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb market.

Gains outnumbered losses three to one. Advances ranged from small fractions to more than a point.

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel and auto issues set a sizzling pace in the stock market here.

Heavy buying lifted leaders in these two groups by fractions to around two points, with prices at peaks for one to 21 years.

LONDON (Reuter) — There was a note of caution and hesitancy in the London Stock Exchange.

Prices of domestic issues failed to hold at initial higher levels and showed irregularity on balance. Operators were awaiting tomorrow's settlement of outstanding transactions and the re-assembly of Parliament.

Flood Fund Nears Halfway Mark

Manitoba's Flood Relief Fund neared the half-way mark today of the $10,000,000 objective which began a month ago.

Biggest single donation so far today was a $25,000 cheque from the International Association of Machinists in Washington, D.C. Sunday the fund received $15,000 from the Swift-Canadian Co. Ltd., Toronto.

The Victoria Symphony Society hopes to swell the fund with a prom concert to be held in the Bay Street Armories June 21 at 8.15. It will be an all-request program. All proceeds will go toward the flood fund.

First cash payment to victims of the flood in Winnipeg was made last week to Mr. and Mrs. William Borsbwom, parents of 11 children. The family's two-story dwelling was badly damaged. The Borsbwoms received $300.

GOOD REASON FOR SPEEDING

HANOVER, Germany (Reuter) — Policemen who stopped a car speeding through Hanover Saturday quickly waved it on again when the driver and his wife explained why they were naked. Their clothes had been stolen while the couple bathed in a lake outside the city.

Reuters Man Goes With East Germans

BERLIN (AP) — John Peet, Berlin correspondent for Reuters News Agency, announced today he is asking the Communist East German government for asylum because of "American warmongering."

Peet, 34, made his announcement to a press conference especially called by Gerhart Eisler, information chief for the east German government, who was expelled from the U.S.

He said he expected that with this announcement his connection with Reuters' a world-wide news agency with headquarters in London, would be ended.

The "Perfect" Entrance

"You're as graceful," I sed, as she made her descent, "as the bird they call the elephant." "Oh . . . I'm sorry," she gasped, her breath a short pant, "I'm awfully sorry, I smashed your lamp." I've been reading a book, on how to write. "You should start," says the author, "with dialogue bright. The opening sentence, their interest should catch, or U might as well pitch it, down the hatch." So, this is what I've tried to do, in relating this story, this Monday to you. "Then you go on, to feed them the riddle, & set up complications right in the middle. It needn't of course always make sense, but throw in too, a lot of suspense." Now in this book, nothing he had, about how to write, a pulling Ad. That's up to me, to play my own fiddle, so I'll jam too, this smack in the middle. And tell you about this dining-room suite, the beautiful buffet, is over-all, 5 ft. With sliding glass doors, to show off your Spode, plus three drawers too, for the linen's abode. Divided like this, in the modern way, the china's combined in this gorgeous buffet. So the other nite, we left our abode, invited to a home . . . on the Gorge Rd. An artistic place, snugged on a rock, & we left our house, about 8 o'clock. I drove in their yard, & cut the ignition (incidentally our friends, have television). We were warmly welcomed in the hall, a minute or too, before "her" fall. To the G.F. of course I'm referring to, she was the "fall-guy," of this story so true. Do you think I'm doing, as I try & condense, as the author said, "work up suspense???" 'Twas rather dark, as he took her coat, as she turned to the living-room, in to float. And our host forgot, for once in his lift (& afterwards got h . . . . from his pretty wife). To say "Watch Your Step." or you'll go ker-plunk, their living-room floor, is so prettily sunk. About 6 inches below, the level of the hall, & that's where the G.F. did "gracefully" sprawl. And on the way, to lessen the harm, she screamed out loud, and raised one arm. I was behind, (is this scene clearly painted?), & so I, thot she'd suddenly fainted. When smack, went their lamp, from the end-table shelf, which she's tried to grab, to save herself. I rushed of course, to pick her up, but she was embarrassed & all keyed-up. But she wasn't hurt, I'm thankful to say, as this perfect entrance she did portray. To add the punch-line, that author makes threats, so mine is that "An Elephant Never Forgets." And when again, we go to their place, she WON'T say "Good Evening" . . . FLAT ON HER FACE.

HAVE A BAD HEART?

By JULIUS DINTENFASS
*D.C., B.Sc., F.I.C.C.

The movement of the blood throughout the body is assured by the pumping action of the heart as it propels the blood out into the arteries, whence it passes to all parts of the body and then returns to the heart through the veins. Though only about the size of a man's fist, the heart does an astonishing piece of work. It pumps fifty gallons of blood per hour. It never sleeps, never loafs, never takes a vacation from the beginning of life to the end. The only rest it ever gets is between beats. And yet with all the work at has to do, the normal heart does not give out suddenly, for it possesses remarkable powers of adaptation to practically any kind of condition. The severity of any heart disease is directly dependent upon the condition or state of the heart muscle or myocardium. The strength or weakness of the heart muscle is in turn directly dependent upon the nerve supply to the heart.

Julius Dintenfass
*Doctor of Chiropractic

The nerves innervating the heart are the vagus and the vertebral sympathetic nerves. These nerves lead directly or indirectly from the nerve cord. In making their exit from the spine they are situated between adjacent spinal segments. These spinal bones may become displaced ,and irritate and impinge upon nerve fibres supplying the heart. In this way the heart becomes impaired.

Chiropractic has at hand a means whereby it can improve and correct the condition of the heart. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, by removing interferences with vital nerve fibres leading to the heart, have demonstrated their effectiveness in correcting many heart conditions.

120,000 Crowd Zoo To Cheer Up Ill Gorilla

CHICAGO (UP)—Well-wishers gathered around the monkey house of Lincoln Park zoo today to cheer Bushman, the world's mightiest captive gorilla, who is ill of heart disease, arthritis and the general complications of old age.

Zoo officials said Bushman was perked up Sunday by 120,000 visitors, a record number at the zoo.

His attendants, who stayed up with him all Sunday night said he appeared to be feeling much better.

However, they would not say that he was on the road to real recovery.

Zoo officials said they never saw anything like the crowds that gathered in and around the building where the 550-pound Bushman lives in a great, glass-enclosed cage. From the time the monkey house opened until it closed in the evening, it was jammed.

The consul of a South American country flashed credentials and pleaded for a preferred position before Bushman's cage. But he had to stand in line behind a freckled-faced kid with an ice cream cone and a big red balloon.

Zoo officials refused to bar visitors. They reasoned that the crowds would act as a tonic to Bushman, who loves attention and has appeared extremely jealous of any notice paid young gorillas in an adjoining cage.

Dangerous Driving Brings $50 Fine

Duncan Ritchie, Jordan River, was fined $50 and his license was suspended for three months by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Saanich police court today on a dangerous driving charge.

Ritchie was proceeding south on Richmond Road Saturday night when he lost control of the Ferriday's U.-drive car he was driving. The vehicle crossed the street and collided with a water meter box, a rockery and a telephone box, the court was told. Ritchie was arrested by Constable Robert Coleman. Property damage was extensive. The car suffered nearly $500 damage.

Victoria will be represented for the first time at a Cosmopolitan International Convention this year. Max David will fly to Mexico City Thursday night to take part in the international convention there. He will represent the Victoria Cosmopolitan Club which was founded a year ago and already is the largest in Cosmopolitan organization.

Jordan River Wins

Jordan River defeated Sooke, 8 to 6, in a Colwood and District senior B men's league softball game at Sooke Sunday night.

Eric Monk, Lorne Swanson and Dick Poirier hurled for Jordan River. Dick Cains went the distance for the losers.

LONGSHOREMEN SILENT

There was no comment today from Victoria longshoremen on the week-end announcement from Vancouver that stevedores would support the I.W.A. in a logging strike.

REGINA (CP)—Struck by a foul ball while umpiring a baseball game today at Killdeer, Sask., Stan Marlin, about 55, Canadian Pacific Railway station master at Rockglen, Sask., died shortly afterwards.

He was struck just above the heart and knocked unconscious. Artificial respiration was applied by a doctor attending the game, but the victim failed to respond.

City Boy Wins Trip To Model Plane Contest

Bill Gelling, 2090 King Road, is probably the happiest boy in Victoria today. He won an all-expense-paid trip to the American National Model Plane contest at Dallas, Tex., to be held in July.

He was high point winner in the junior class of the Vancouver Model Plane Derby, held Saturday under the sponsorship of a Vancouver newspaper.

The Victoria model airplane builders took a total of eight firsts, five seconds and four thirds. Andy Rittich and Alan Payne took runner-up position in the junior class competition, in which Gelling won his free trip. Ian Douglas took top honors in the senior class, winning first prizes in hand-launched gliders, towline gliders and stick model classes.

ALOFT NINE MINUTES

In the open division Rod McLeod took the towline event with the longest flight of the day. His craft stayed up for nine minutes. Doug Collis placed second in Wakefield and third in stunt and cabin models.

Rittich lost his six-foot glider, his stick model. Neither had been returned when the group left for Victoria.

Sprung Car Door Cause Of Accident

Involved in a collision while attempting to close the rear door of his car which had sprung open, Robert Parker Heal, 1493 Myrtle Street, was fined $35 by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving on Dallas Road. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, reading from the officers' report, said Heal was in collision with a parked car while trying to close the door. The court was told his speed was about 30 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

LONDON (CP)—Boxing manager Harry Sheppard said today he had an offer from British authorities to match Vancouver's Frank Almond against Britain's Ronnie Clayton for the British Empire featherweight boxing championship.

Almond won the Canadian featherweight title June 6, stopping Montreal's Lou Alter in six rounds.

SOCCER SERIES PROVES FAILURE

VANCOUVER (CP) — The slim crowd of 2,641 persons turning out Saturday as Mexico's Atlas team downed B.C. All-Stars 4 to 3 dipped the soccer commission into the red on the operation. Only 2,000 turned out Thursday for the 1-to-1 draw.

Needed to clear was $7,000 —$6,000 guarantee and $1,000 expenses. The healthy balance left from the English all-star games will cover the deficit.

HYDRO SURVEY REPORTED FOR NORTHERN B.C.

Tunnel System To Coast Said Possible Result

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver newspaper said today that it has been learned that preliminary surveys for another huge hydro-electric aluminum development, using some of B.C.'s water resources, are to be carried out this summer.

The dispatch says the Aluminum Company of America is planning to send parties to study the engineering problems of its scheme which covers the far northwestern tip of B.C., a section of the Yukon, and Alaska.

It adds that an outline of the suggested project has been filed with the provincial government since some of B.C.'s water would be used.

It is estimated more than 1,000,000 horsepower could be developed by turning water of the lake system in the region away from their natural outlets and dropping it by a system of tunnels to the coast near Skagway, Alaska.

Atlin Lake and Tagish Lake, in northwestern B.C., would form the main source of water for the scheme, with Bennett and Lindeman Lakes, in the Yukon, part of the system.

The dispatch says a dam would be built across the Lewes River near Whitehorse.

Windsor Hit Hard By 65 M.P.H. Gale

The severe 15-minute electrical, wind and rainstorm which ripped through the Windsor district injured nearly a score of persons and caused an estimated $100,000 damage. The storm, which cut a narrow path from west to east, just missed the downtown district, whistling eastward to suburban Riverside. In other parts of the city the sun shone. The wind reached and held a velocity of 65 miles per hour for nearly two minutes and left in its wake broken windows, uprooted trees, fires, broken roofs of houses and garages, seen above.—(SNS Photo)

BOWL COMMITTEE FOR CONFERENCE

Athletic Directors Of Coast Schools May Hit Snag On 1954 Grid Schedule

The Pacific Coast Conference had a special Rose Bowl committee all set up today but hadn't told it what it was supposed to do.

That's just one top-important matter facing conference representativec who went into the first full day session of their 1950 summer meeting at the Empress Hotel today.

Also on the agenda was arrangement of the 1954 football schedule by the athletic directore, but appeared this might hit a snag.

At least one director said he opposed setting up the schedule until the winter meeting. He said the grid calendar already is booked for four years ahead and felt the conference would have a better idea of 1954 needs after the 1950 season.

The Rose Bowl committee selected will meet with a similar —but larger—group named by the Big Ten Conference to discuss renewal of the five-year pact now in its last year. Coast representatives, opening the meeting Sunday, picked five men. The Big Ten has named seven.

The resignation of Montana State University to join the Mountain States Athletic Conference added to the program. Formal acceptance poses no difficulty but the meeting must decide also when it will become effective.

A rumor that Idaho might follow Montana into the mountain loop was quickly denied by Idaho representatives.

Faculty representatives, headed by conference president H. P. (Dick) Everest of Washington, gave no indication when they would begin talks on television. Neither was there the least hint of what action the group might take—if any.

'Torture March' Survivors Hunted

AMMAN, Hashemite, Jordan (Reuter)—Arab Legion rescue parties today were searching a 100-mile frontier for survivors of 120 Arabs—men, women and children—alleged to have been sent on a "torture march" from Israel across waterless tracts of the Negev Desert.

Arab press reports alleged Jewish authorities, who described the Arabs as "infiltrators," deliberately drove them across the desert instead of bringing them safely to populated parts of the frontier.

So far about 80 have been accounted for, reports here said.

United Nations observers were understood to be investigating.

Father Of Four Killed

DETROIT (CP)—A 40-year-old Detroit auto worker, father of four, was shot and killed and his wife criminally attacked early today by a young man who hailed them as they were driving through a wooded section of the city.

Dead was Eugene Schaaf. Under arrest for questioning was Clifford Peterson of Royal Oak, Mich.

Newfoundland Still Fighting Forest Fires

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (BUP) —Homeowners stood by their houses with garden hose today, guarding against sparks from a forest fire raging on the other side of the 100-yard-wide exploit River.

While forest rangers stamped out the remains of a week-end fire that once threatened to blast 2,000,000 gallons of stored gasoline at Lewisporte, this town took over as the centre of Newfoundland's fire-fighting activity.

Pulpwood company officials ordered lumbermen and plant workers into a major battle against flames fanned by a stiff breeze two to three miles from this pulp and paper town.

They said the community itself was defended in large measure by the river which separates it from burning brush, but that steady winds had won out over the initial work of rangers and volunteer firemen.

The fire, which threatened mills and plants of Bowaters and Anglo-Newfoundland Development Corporations, was partly beaten here and at nearby Windsor Saturday night by a two-hour rainstorm after it rolled over 400 acres of timberland.

'So What?'

Mrs. Anthony Eden, in New York, said "So what," when told that her husband, former Foreign Secretary of England, had been granted a divorce in London. She said she would try to get a job, but was not sure what she could do.

SOBBING CONTINUOUSLY

Edmonton Woman On Trial For Murder

EDMONTON (BUP)—Sobbing almost continuously, Mrs. Marie Smith, 20, heard herself charged in Alberta Supreme Court today with murdering an Edmonton Chinese grocer.

Prosecutor W. J. Shortreed said Crown evidence would deal mainly with whether Mrs. Smith could justify her actions, presumably on the basis of self-defence.

Dressed in a plain brown suit, the brown-haired, oval-faced young housewife hardly lifted her eyes from the floor as she sat through two hours of preliminary proceedings.

She is charged with the April 19 butcherknife slaying of 42-year-old Jimmy Pon.

Defence counsel Guy Patterson, former prosecutor defending his first murder suspect, said he likely would call Mrs. Smith to the witness stand when the Crown's case ends.

The trial was expected to last at least three or four days.

A preliminary hearing at which Mrs. Smith was committed for trial produced a statement to police in which she claimed Pon threatened to kill her unless she remained with him. She claimed she was defending her honor. She said she had visited his store to buy groceries.

Trades License Law Declared Invalid

The City Trades License By-law increasing trade and professional licenses, today was declared invalid by Judge H. H. Shandley in County Court.

The by-law was passed last year by the City Council in order to raise the municipal revenue by $50,000 every six months.

It was contested by J. R. McIlree, city barrister, who refused to pay his increased trade licence fee on the grounds that it was illegal. He was backed by the Victoria Bar Association and other business groups chafing under the increased fees.

In declaring the by-law invalid, Judge Shandley said he was convinced that the City Council did not study the by-law to see if there was no inequality or injustice done before passing it.

LEGAL DUTY

"I am of the opinion that it was the legal duty of the council not to delegate its authority but to consider and deal with every item set out in the by-law in order to see that no inequality or injustice takes place," stated the judge. "I am convinced they did no such thing."

He said there was at least one "glaring inequality and injustice."

"I am sure the council never would have passed it if they had given the by-law due consideration, namely, charging young men who have just completed their university training and who most likely will not earn sufficient to pay expenses during the first year.

The judge added: "For the reasons I have mentioned, I find the by-law invalid. Therefore it is not necessary for me to deal with the other points raised by counsel for the appellants. The appeal is allowed.

The judge's decision means that the increase imposed upon professional and tradesmen is illegal.

H. W. Davey, K.C., was counsel for Mr. McIlree. C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, assisted by A. J. Patton, city solicitor, represented the city.
